

Violent Riots Spread Through Yugoslavia, Protesting Axis Pact

Demonstrations Rage in Capital and Sarajevo; Many Arrests Are Made Among Students, Revolutionaries.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 26.—This capital and the Bosnian city of Sarajevo, where a student assassin touched off the last great war, were the scenes tonight of violent street riots led largely by students inflamed against Yugoslavia's new membership in the Axis.

In Sarajevo, where Gavrio Princip assassinated Archduke Franz Ferdinand, of Austria-Hungary, in 1914, more than 1,000 rioters battled with police who tried to put down demonstrations against Germany. The fight started when 200 theological students paraded, singing old Slavic hymns and crying out against Germany.

Here in Belgrade, police battled with rioters in at least eight separate points, making many arrests, notably among dissident students and the reinvigorated comitaji of old-time Serbian revolutionaries.

Heavily Armed. Soldiers and police, armed with every weapon they could carry, hastened to guard against threatened bombing of bridges across the Danube and the Sava rivers, which meet here.

Riot cars raced through the streets from one disturbance to another.

(Meanwhile, observers at the Yugoslav southern frontier watched British mechanized forces move into positions along the strategic Vardar valley opposite the Yugoslav town of Djedjelija, about 65 miles north of Greek Salonika, the United Press said.)

All-day disturbances among students resulted in closing of the schools at least until Monday. In one school the students heaped up their benches and burned them with torches. A photograph of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in many others classrooms were wrecked and walls were defaced with scrawling jibes at Germany.

Students from tender years to young manhood persisted in fiery demonstrations. Many were under 15 years of age.

Reports from Montenegro, one of the divers elements in this heterogeneous kingdom of ancient races, creeds, hates and loyalties, told of vigorous demonstrations, particularly in Cetinje.

British Warned. The government press office called all British newspapermen in to tell them they would be ejected from the country if they continued to write about the disorders. Their telephone connections to foreign countries were cut off all day.

Police raided homes of many

Chorus of Heils Hails Matsuoka At Berlin Rites

U. S. Lend-Lease Law May Be Thoroughly Studied.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, March 26.—In a ceremony scarcely less spectacular than those for visiting royalty, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, of Japan, was welcomed here today for conversations which German commentators said would be intended to promote the Axis new order in both Europe and the Far East.

There were suggestions that the United States' lend-lease law would be thoroughly studied.

The Japanese reviewed a military honor company amid the hoarse heils of throngs of men and women from the shops, industrial plants and public services.

At the station to receive Matsuoka were the top men of the Nazi government and party—save only Adolf Hitler himself and Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering—and representatives of the German armed forces, including Field Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command.

On hand, too, in shiny top hats, were representatives of five little Axis partners—of Slovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia. Nearly everybody was in uniform—German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Italian Ambassador Dino Alfieri among them—but the Japanese ambassador, Hiroshi Oshima, turned up in a bowler hat and a civilian overcoat.

Matsuoka looked grave and a little tired as he emerged from his train to be greeted by Von Ribbentrop and then to go solemnly and with immobile face down the line of the notables.

There was a large rising sun, of paper, white chrysanthemums and red poppies, and in an alcove Hitler youths shouted and blew

U. S. Will Give Laboratory State Evidence Tests Waited In Fraud Cases In Death Here

Camp Receives Authorization From Attorney General's Office.

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp yesterday notified Governor Talmadge that the federal government will turn over to state authorities any evidence the government might have concerning any parties, firms or corporations charged with defrauding the taxpayers of Georgia.

In a letter to the Governor, Camp stated that he had received authorization from the office of the United States attorney general to make available to the state such information as Camp deemed proper, provided the disclosure of the information did not prejudice the government's interest.

Camp's request of the authorization from the attorney general, and his transmittal of this permission to the Governor, followed a request last week by Governor Talmadge for the information relative to the alleged frauds.

Governor Talmadge stated at that time, in a letter to Camp, that "You are advised that it is the

Griffin Woman Dies Suddenly After Permanent Wave Treatment.

(Certificate on Page 14.)

Two laboratory tests were being awaited yesterday to determine what, if any, action would be taken in the death here March 19, after a hair-beautification treatment, of Mrs. Agnes Scott Searcy, wife of D. B. Searcy, of Griffin.

Agents of the Federal Food and Drug Service, of the Federal Security Administration, had sent to Washington, D. C., for analysis, samples of a permanent hair-wave preparation used on Mrs. Searcy before she was taken to Crawford Long sanitarium, where she was pronounced dead.

J. J. McManus, head of the federal agency here, said the purpose was to determine if there had been any violation of United States Code Section 301, Volume 21, enacted in 1938, that "prohibits the interstate shipment of cosmetics which contain poisonous or deleterious substances which may render it injurious to users under conditions of use prescribed on the label or under such conditions of use as are customary."

He emphasized that the inquiry was "an 'if' proposition at this stage."

Also, Dr. Allen H. Bunce, Mrs. Searcy's physician, who performed an autopsy, was awaiting word from a laboratory which would assist in determining her physical condition at the time of death.

The federal official said the preparation was described as having been used in about 900,000 instances without injury to the client. He said his agency primarily was concerned with the interstate commerce aspect rather than Mrs. Searcy's death.

A notation on the death certificate, filed in the office of Lenox Thornton, registrar for the federal Department of Public Health in the Health Department office at the City Hall, read:

"Cause undetermined as yet. Autopsy done. Complete report later."

At the Griffin offices of Beck, Goodrich & Beck, attorneys for the husband, it was said that completion of the death certificate and the laboratory reports was being awaited before they made any move.

Allis Chalmers Ordered By U. S. To Resume Work In Strikebound Factory

U. S. Preparing Reply to Nazis' War Extension

May Take Form of Warning or More Decisive Measures.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 26. An American answer to Germany's extension of her sea blockade to the very border line of the western hemisphere, if not actually across it, was in preparation tonight.

Whether it would take the form of a warning to Germany or more decisive measures to keep hostile operations out of hemisphere waters, officials would not say until they had completed a study of all aspects of the problem.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said the whole question was under consideration and he probably would make a statement in a day or two.

Possible Action.

These possibilities were advanced unofficially:

1. A warning to Germany to keep submarines and other war vessels out of the western hemisphere.

2. An extension of the European combat zone to include Iceland, thus closing that British-occupied Danish colony to American shipping.

3. An extension of the Pan-American neutrality zone to the easternmost limit of the western hemisphere. This would mean a widened patrol by American war vessels—a move which might at the same time relieve the British convoy problem by protecting supply ships half-way across the Atlantic.

German explanations that the blockade against Britain was extended to include Iceland because American ships had been unloading supplies there for trans-shipment to England were disputed by officials here.

The Maritime Commission declared that no American ships had been going to Iceland, Denmark's sister kingdom which was occupied by British troops last summer soon after Germany occupied Denmark.

Only Ships.

The only ships plying between the United States and Iceland were said to be six small vessels operating under the Icelandic flag and carrying supplies for the island. The ships, it was stated, total 7,516 tons.

The German move brought into question the exact eastern limits of the western hemisphere and the traditional American policy of defending that area of the world.

Administration officials hold that the line is between Greenland and Iceland, putting the former within the western hemisphere, but not Iceland.

31,500 TONS OF SHIPPING SUNK, BERLIN CLAIMS

BERLIN, March 26.—(AP)—Germany declared tonight her determination to do everything militarily possible to keep Iceland from becoming a mid-Atlantic supply depot for Britain and followed up with a special high command announcement that 31,500 tons of shipping had been sunk by aerial bombs today.

The bulk of this toll was reported to have been taken far west of the British Isles, well into the extended zone of German war operations which now include Iceland. The Germans say the British are trying to use this island, which is occupied by British troops, as a base to crack the German blockade of American supplies to England.

POSITION UNCHANGED, LONDON DECLARES

LONDON, March 26.—(AP)—British sources said today the German announcement of extension of the sea war zone to include Iceland made no difference to the British.

Goods Must Reach 'We Can Wait No Longer,' Say Knudsen, Knox

By The United Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—

Colonel William J. Donovan, the administration's unofficial observer in Europe, tonight raised the question of American convoys of war materials to Britain, declaring that the $7,000,000,000 war-aid program "is going to mean nothing in winning the war unless the goods we produce and ship reach their destination."

He said in a radio speech over the three major radio networks that Americans "have got to make our minds" on what should be done to prevent the sinking of ships carrying war supplies to Britain because of the "thinness of protection" against German submarines, airplanes, mines and raiders.

"Are we going to deliver the goods?" he asked.

"This question must be answered now. Are we prepared to take the chance? For there is a chance. There is danger, and whatever we do we must recognize that the danger of attack exists."

Donovan, who was sent on his European mission by Secretaries of Navy Frank Knox and War

Henry L. Stimson, said he was not speaking as "an expert or as an authority" on conditions in Europe but wished to "present the facts . . . so far as I am able . . ."

He said the United States had done two things in passing the war-aid program "which could be considered acts of war."

"One is to authorize the building of fighting ships to be delivered to England. The other is the provision for the refitting and repair of British ships in our yards. "Germany has ignored those acts, as she has many others the past year and a half. But we must not delude ourselves into thinking that she hasn't stored it up against us. We'll have to pay for it . . ."

The United States, he said, has no choice "as to whether or not we will be attacked," despite the stand of "men in this country" who believe an attack can be avoided by avoiding provocation. "That choice is Hitler's; and he has already made it—not for Europe only, but for Africa and Asia and the world."

'500 Snacks' British Yield Booklets Go Spearhead Tip Of Libya Drive

Special Facilities Set Up To Fill Calls and Mail Orders.

Cookbooklets, made available to Atlanta and Georgia women this week by The Constitution, are going like the proverbial hot cakes.

Special facilities were set up in The Constitution building—of necessity—the very first day, last Monday, when the booklets were initially released. Since Monday, the Cookbooklet counter has been a busy spot on the first floor of the newspaper office building, as hundreds of Atlantans, men and women, have dropped by to obtain their copies of Cookbooklet No. 1, entitled "500 Snacks."

Mail orders also have been far beyond expectations, but a sufficient supply of the culinary guides is now on hand to fill all demands. People who apply in person for the booklets may obtain them for one coupon from a daily issue of The Constitution, plus 10 cents. Mail orders are to be accompanied by 15 cents, the extra nickel to cover cost of postage and handling. One new Cookbooklet will be issued each week, until the full set of 20 has been distributed. After the first week, back copies of the booklets will be available for those who want extra copies or copies they have missed at time of issuance.

DANISH SHIP SUNK.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Marine sources reported today that the 975-ton Danish freighter H. W. Petersen, which plied between Canada and Baltic ports before the war, had been sunk by "enemy action" and that the crew had been rescued.

Concede Some German Troops in Axis Mechanized Body.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 26.—(AP) British headquarters conceded tonight that there were some German troops in an Axis mechanized detachment which last Monday occupied aEl Agheila, westernmost point of the British spearhead in Libya, and that there probably were other detachments in the vicinity directly westward.

This is by no means an indication of a general German-Italian advance, they declared, for the British have been keeping a careful watch on Germans landing at Tripoli, only North African harbor left to the Italians and repeatedly attacked by the RAF.

The latest raids were on Monday and Tuesday nights, the British reported, and caused fires and explosions among government buildings and harbor works. The bulk of the Axis detachment in El Agheila is Italian, the British added. British patrols withdrew Sunday before the town was occupied, a communique stated.

The town is 150 miles southwest of Bengasi on the Gulf of Sidra, at the point where the victorious Imperial Army of the Nile halted its westward drive.

British officers said the town was of no importance: A ruined mud fort, a few bad wells and having a peacetime population of about 20. Besides, its position is exposed militarily.

In Eritrea and Ethiopia, last spots of stiff Italian resistance in east Africa, the RAF reported widespread air raids, particularly at Cheren, in support of the British land forces' efforts to take that Italian stronghold which guards the route to Asmara.

45 Millions in Defense Orders Delayed in Milwaukee Plant.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The government yesterday ordered the strike-bound Allis Chalmers plant and its employees to resume operations on the ground that the 64-day-old walkout was "vitally affecting the delivery of Navy orders."

The Milwaukee company, which holds orders for $45,000,000 of defense work, was notified of the government's attitude in a telegram from Navy Secretary Knox and William S. Knudsen, OPM director. The telegram said in part: "We can no longer wait for settlement of the strike by ordinary means. We must ask you to notify your entire force to report for work and start operations immediately."

The message was addressed to Max W. Babb, president of the company, who had left for Milwaukee a short time earlier after conferring with government officials in Washington.

Strike Issues Change. OPM officials said "union security" was the issue at the start of the strike, but various other issues had arisen since.

(A United Press report from Chicago said William Berchtold, public relations counsel for Allis Chalmers, announced the company will attempt to reopen its Milwaukee plant Monday.)

A tie-up of three big New York shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel Company was threatened when the CIO union of marine and shipbuilding workers called a meeting for Friday to vote on the question of an immediate strike.

Some 5,000 men are employed in the yards and the union claims to be the bargaining agent for 90 per cent of them. The yards are working up to capacity on orders for American and foreign ships.

Philip H. Van Gelder, secretary-treasurer of the union, said that eight weeks of conferences with company representatives had failed to bring a settlement of grievances. The union said in a statement that the company had refused to April showers late in March. That's the weather prospect for Atlanta today, the weatherman said yesterday as he predicted "mostly cloudy, with probably some light rain." Temperature, however, will approximate yesterday's.

Temperature extremes expected today are 42 degrees in the morning and the low 60's later in the day. Yesterday's extremes were 63 and 46 degrees.

Browder Will Begin Sentence In Penitentiary Here Today

Leaves N. Y. by Train; Shackled to Two Other Prisoners.

Earl Browder, the nation's No. 1 Communist and the Red party's Presidential candidate in 1940, was en route to this city last night from New York to begin serving a term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Shackled to two Negro prisoners and guarded by two husky United States deputy marshals, the Communist chief was hustled aboard a train at New York early yesterday morning to start today a four-year sentence imposed on his conviction 15 months ago of using a fraudulently obtained passport.

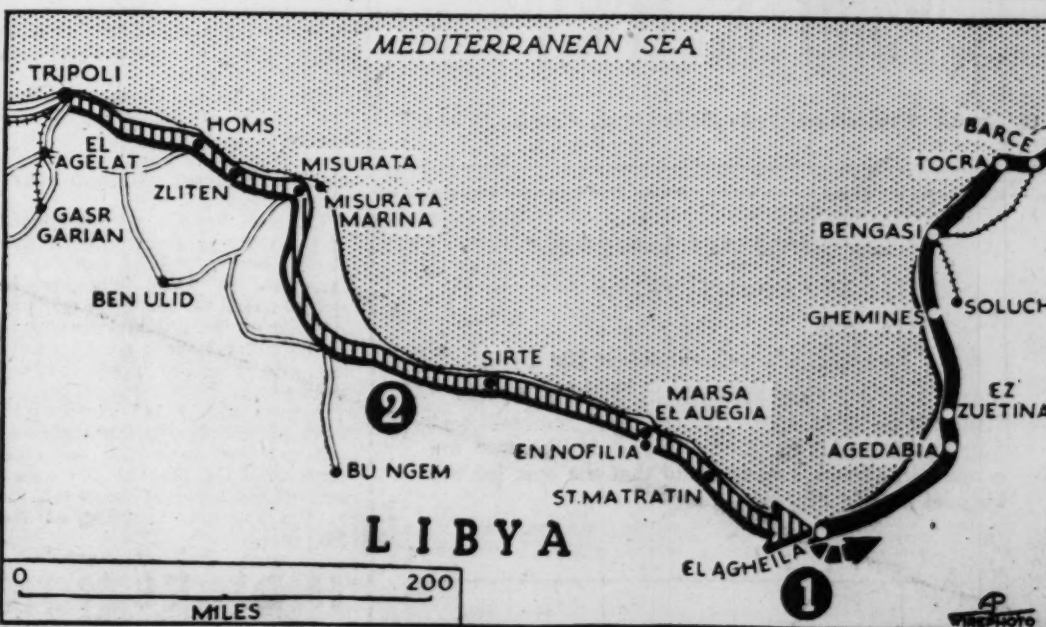

The government claimed Browder, in applying in 1934 for a passport, swore he had not previously received a passport. Evidence submitted during his trial disclosed that he had received three other passports. He was charged with willfully using a passport obtained by false statements.

The government contended that Browder was issued a passport in 1921, in the name of Nicholas Dozenberg; in 1927, under the name of George Morris, and also in 1927 under the name of Albert Henry Richards.

His conviction was upheld by federal circuit court and the United States supreme court, the latter handing down its decision last February 17.

Norman A. White Obtains Hearing by Rarely-Used Statute.

Within five minutes after he heard a 12-man jury declare him mentally competent yesterday, Norman A. White, 38, of 716 Piedmont avenue, heard a minister pronounce him and his sweetheart man and wife.
White married Miss Mary Elizabeth Grant, 41, of 1030 Oglethorpe avenue, S. W., daughter of Mrs. W. Y. C. Grant, of Columbia, Tennessee.
After a sanity commission composed of two doctors and a lawyer had declared him mentally incompetent about three months ago, White dug up a rarely-used Georgia statute which permits a sanity hearing before a 12-man jury in an effort to regain control of property with an estimated value of $25,000.
The jury listened to testimony of White, his friends, relatives and neighbors for three days, then yesterday found him mentally competent.
When the verdict was rendered, White turned to the woman he had been courting for the last two years, the woman who had sat beside him while the sanity hearing dragged into days of almost endless testimony.
He whispered a few brief words into her ear—words heard only by her.
Then she nodded her head in the affirmative, and immediately White launched a search for a minister. A clerk in the ordinary's court called the Rev. A. C. Peacock, deputy tax collector, and the marriage ceremony was performed in the ordinary's courtroom, scene of the hearing.
The couple were preparing last night to leave for a short visit with the bride's mother in Columbia. They will live at White's Piedmont avenue residence after the honeymoon.
When placing your Want Ad in The Constitution inquire about the attractive seven-day rate.

A BARGAIN IS SEALED—Five minutes after a 12-man jury declared him mentally competent, Norman A. White took unto himself the above bride, the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Grant, of Columbia, Tenn. The ceremony was performed in the ordinary's office, scene of the sanity hearing.

U. S. Convoying British Smash In Speculative Attacks by Nazi Stage-George Torpedo Boats

Believes F. D. R. Will First Submit Question to Congress.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, March 26.—Continued speculation over the possible use of American Naval vessels as convoys with British crews today brought from Senator George, of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a statement that he did not regard such a development as likely without President Roosevelt's first submitting the question to congress.
The Georgia senator said his belief that such a move would first be taken up with congress was based on the attitude indicated in the house and senate during consideration of the lease-lend all-out British aid bill.
If the situation surrounding the furnishing of war supplies to Great Britain becomes steadily worse, he said, then the question might be seriously considered. Up to now, however, he added, the subject has merely been a matter of speculation.
With the passage of the $7,000,000,000 appropriation bill providing the material aid authorized in the lease-lend act, considerable speculation has come forward as to what the attitude of the United States would be if the Germans succeeded in sinking large quantities of the supplies we are sending to Great Britain. The question reduces itself to one of whether public sentiment would be content to see several billion dollars' worth of material we are making for the British sent to the bottom of the ocean without more direct moves on the part of the American Navy to protect it.
At the moment there is no great agitation for furnishing convoys of American Naval vessels, manned by American crews, but the suggestion is made that we lend some of our warships to Great Britain for the same purpose after the substitution of British crews.
In his conference with congressional leaders prior to the passage of the lease-lend bill the President gave assurance of his intention not to convey the shipment of materials to Britain under the act, but the way was left open for him to transfer a part of our fleet to the British for those operations.

Planes Downed; German Activity Over Britain Light.

LONDON, March 26.—(P)—British war vessels shepherding convoys through the North Sea beat off a series of night attacks by German torpedo boats and shot down a German plane with a hit full in the nose, the admiralty announced tonight.
These reports were issued as reliable sources said Britain's answer to German extension of the Atlantic counter-blockade is a swarm of big American patrol bombers that comb the seas for Nazi craft as far as Iceland—500 miles from the nearest English cape.
Lockheed and Consolidated "Catalina" bombers bear the brunt of the aerial scouring.
The admiralty said naval light forces hit several of the speedy E-boats and that it was probable some were lost. Messerschmitt 110—was shot down when it made a daylight attack on a convoy guarded by the destroyer Versatile, built during the World War. No British damage was reported.
Earlier officials announced a British plane had torpedoed and sunk a 6,000-ton German supply ship today off the Dutch coast and the admiralty said the British submarine Sturgeon torpedoed and sank an 8,000-ton German tanker off Norway.

Injury at Play Gives Boy 1-50 Chance To Live

Doctors Fear To Operate on Victim of Bleeding Illness.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(UP)—The odds against life for 5-year-old Bobby Bocca may be 50 to 1 because another boy threw a snowball at him.
The glimmer of hope was held out today by physicians at Fordham hospital, who admitted that they are substantially helpless against a condition which has afflicted royal families and those of the poor like Bobby's. They fear to perform a needed appendectomy.
The boy is a victim of hemophilia—the strange bleeding disease in which even slight cuts refuse to heal because the victim's blood lacks clotting elements. It was the ailment which brought death to the Count of Coudonga, son of the late King Alfonso XIII, of Spain, who bled to death after an automobile accident in Miami in 1938.
Struck by Playmate.
Last Friday Bobby was playing, carefully, as he had been trained to avoid the normal accidents of boyhood amusement. A playmate threw a snowball which struck him in the abdomen. Internal bleeding resulted and this was complicated by appendicitis.
Doctors did what they could. They packed Bobby in ice and provided a special diet in the hope of reducing the appendix inflammation. If they can't, they must operate and then, surgeons said, Bobby's chance is one in 50.
A nurse said Bobby was "not so well" today.
"Of course," she added, "they won't operate unless they have to."
Bobby's father died of a kidney ailment last November. It was attributed to 106 blood transfusions he had given Bobby's two brothers, Alfred, 13, and William, 11. They, too, are hemophiliacs. Strangely enough, because the disease ordinarily affects males of a family, Bobby's two sisters also bled freely from slight wounds. The disease is transmitted through females, who are usually immune.
Hard Luck Family.
The Bocca family has other troubles. The mother, Mrs. Catherine Bocca, is on relief and about to be evicted from her Bronx home because she cannot pay the rent, $42.50, and still provide dietary and medical care needed by her children. She has been receiving $110 a month home relief. Last week she sold her sewing machine for $3 and said that when Bobby was taken to the hospital there wasn't "a cent" in the house.
An experimental treatment, tried on Alfred four years ago, helped him for a time, physicians said, but he is again a hemophiliac.

I. C. C. Declines To Alter Zone Line Without Public Session.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday notified the state of Georgia that it could not change the Central time zone line without a public hearing, but added that a hearing would be granted if it is requested.
The decision of the I. C. C., however is not expected to have any effect on the Eastern time law which became operative throughout the state last Friday morning. Only interstate railroads and airplanes are still operating in Georgia under the I. C. C. zoning.
The refusal of the commission to alter the zone merely upon the basis of legislative action was made known through a letter from Commission Chairman Joseph B. Eastman to Secretary of State John Wilson.
Wilson previously had sent the I. C. C. a certified copy of the time bill and asked what action, if any, the commission would take in regard to the change.
Eastman replied, "I may say that the boundaries of the present time zones were fixed by this commission after hearing of the parties involved and upon notice to the state of Georgia. However, if the state desires a reopening of the procedure and requests it, we shall be glad to give the matter prompt attention."

Wind Delays Delivery of Aid Bill to F. D. R.
MIAMI, Fla., March 26.—(P)—Shifting winds kicked up the Gulf stream today and prevented a "special delivery" Navy plane from delivering the $7,000,000,000 British aid bill to President Roosevelt for his signature.
Officials said if rough seas quieted, another attempt would be made tomorrow to take the big White House mail pouch to the presidential yacht Potomac, somewhere off the Florida coast. The Navy plane flew to the vicinity of the fishing cruise bearing the bill, but turned back because of the stiff wind.
In addition to President Roosevelt, seven of 10 cabinet members were vacationing today.
Attorney General Jackson and Interior Secretary Ickes were on the presidential yacht. Postmaster General Walker was in Florida. Labor Secretary Perkins in New Mexico, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau in Arizona, Secretary of State Hull in Georgia, and Commerce Secretary Jones in Florida.

ON ITS NOSE—A cross-wind, a jammed right brake—and over. Pilot T. W. Johnson, of Columbia, S. C., and a party of four were shaken but unhurt when his commercial airplane nosed over at Candler field about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as the machine landed from the west, with a wind blowing from the northwest, and whirled to the right when the brake stuck. The propeller and engine were damaged. CAA officials will investigate.

Hearing Held Necessary to Time Change

I. C. C. Declines To Alter Zone Line Without Public Session.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday notified the state of Georgia that it could not change the Central time zone line without a public hearing, but added that a hearing would be granted if it is requested.
The decision of the I. C. C., however is not expected to have any effect on the Eastern time law which became operative throughout the state last Friday morning. Only interstate railroads and airplanes are still operating in Georgia under the I. C. C. zoning.
The refusal of the commission to alter the zone merely upon the basis of legislative action was made known through a letter from Commission Chairman Joseph B. Eastman to Secretary of State John Wilson.
Wilson previously had sent the I. C. C. a certified copy of the time bill and asked what action, if any, the commission would take in regard to the change.
Eastman replied, "I may say that the boundaries of the present time zones were fixed by this commission after hearing of the parties involved and upon notice to the state of Georgia. However, if the state desires a reopening of the procedure and requests it, we shall be glad to give the matter prompt attention."

WEST POINT WILL NOT CHANGE
WEST POINT, Ga., March 26.—(P)—This west Georgia town, whose citizens have many ties with Alabama, will not change to Eastern Standard time, Mayor W. H. Scott announced today.
Council received a petition from businessmen in the city requesting that Central time be continued despite a recent legislative act to place all of Georgia on uniform time.
Council voted in accordance with the request, directing that the city clock be left at Central time, and that functions of the city government be carried on under that time.
Many West Point residents are employed in Alabama, which has Central time.

Motorists Will Invade Georgia Peach Orchards
By The Associated Press.
MACON, Ga., March 26.—(P)—South Georgians are prepared for a weekend invasion—motorists inspired to take a trip through the blossoming peach orchards.
K. H. Weinberger, horticulturist at the United States laboratory at Fort Valley, said the Hiley Belles should be in full bloom by Sunday, and the Early Rose varieties by the middle of next week.
From Sylvester came reports that Worth county orchards already were blanketed with peach blooms.
Thousands of Georgians drive through the orchard counties of the state every spring when the peach trees cover thousands of acres with their colorful blooms.

Finance Firm Fined; Took Draftee's Auto

First Case in California, Perhaps in the Country.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(AP)—An automobile finance company was fined in federal court today for repossessing a draftee's automobile. Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Karesh said it was the first case of its kind in California and perhaps in the country.
Federal Judge Harold Louderback imposed a nominal fine of $50 on the Fidelity Auto Finance Corporation, but warned that if this sort of thing occurs again we will not be giving our nominal fines.
The maximum fine is $1,000. The soldier's and sailor's relief act of 1940 provides that when more than half of a conditional sales contract has been paid the article cannot be repossessed while the purchaser is in military service.
Although the finance corporation had repaid Joseph Tighe, 22, all of his costs, it pleaded guilty. Karesh explained that the case had been called to his attention by the Army and he pressed charges to call attention to the law.

Mayor's Post Is Affected by National Events

LeCraw's Plan To Join Command in Case of War Is Recalled.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

National events may cast their shadows over the Atlanta mayor's office.

There already is considerable conjecture, surmise and even planning regarding the post in the event Mayor LeCraw, a lieutenant colonel on inactive service, decides to join his command, which he has announced he will do if the United States goes to war.

City council last month passed a resolution asking the legislature to enact a charter provision to give LeCraw a military leave of absence in the event he enters active service and to empower council to elect LeCraw's successor to serve the unexpired term or until LeCraw is discharged from service and returns to complete his four-year term of office.

Fulton and DeKalb county delegations in the past session of the Georgia legislature were almost unanimously in favor of the bill, but it was blocked by one member. Failure of the bill to pass is the cause for present unpredictable conditions. LeCraw expressed keen disappointment at failure of the bill and attributed it "to politics."

Old Outfit Visited.

If LeCraw should go into service, he would be forced to resign as mayor, and the citizens of Atlanta would elect a successor to fill the unexpired term.

Meanwhile the mayor, taking a brief vacation, today is visiting his old outfit, Battery B of the 17th Field Artillery, Camp Blanding, Fla. He left Atlanta yesterday, and will be back in his office Monday.

When the resolution was presented to city council, Mayor Pro Tem John A. White was mentioned prominently as a candidate for the interim term. White's friends predicted his selection by council if the bill had passed.

Now that the council election is "out," and anyone offering would be forced to run in a city-wide election, White is still regarded as an active candidate.

Group Favors Bridges.

A council bloc, however, believes that Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of council's police committee, and one of a handful of outspoken LeCraw supporters during the Hartsfield regime, would better execute the policies of the LeCraw regime than White.

Then there is a third possibility, even a probability. Friends of former Mayor Hartsfield, who was nosed out as mayor by 111 votes in last September's primary, say he is quietly and unobtrusively grooming himself for another venture in politics.

Reports are that he has a wistful eye on one of the Fulton county commissioner posts in 1942 when Commissioners Ed L. Almand, Troy G. Chastain and Dr. Charles Ross Adams will face the electorate for new four-year terms if they seek renomination.

But with a prospect of the mayoralty for another term at a salary of $8,000 a year as contrasted with the $3,600 paid annually to a commissioner, his friends contend, he probably would be interested in the race for the city executive's post.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. Will Give State Evidence In Fraud Cases

purpose of the state to use such evidence in both civil and criminal cases."

Camp said yesterday he had just returned to Atlanta from a trip, and that thus far no one from the Governor's office had conferred with him about the matter.

"I'll be glad to talk to any authorized representative of the state about the matter," Camp said.

Camp's letter to the Governor follows:

"Replying to your letter of March 21, requesting that the department of justice make available to the state of Georgia, evidence and information in its possession, relating to alleged fraud and corruption on the part of certain former employees of the state of Georgia, beg to advise that the office of the United States attorney general has advised me as follows:

"In view of your recommendation, you are hereby authorized to make available to the state prosecuting authorities such of the information as you may deem proper for use in connection with any contemplated state prosecutions, provided, of course, the disclosure of such information does not in any way prejudice the government's interest."

"I shall be glad to talk to any authorized representative of the state with regard to this matter at any time."

Governor Talmadge was out of town yesterday, but is expected, on his return today, to turn the letter over to Attorney General Ellis Arnall, who will obtain the evidence for use in preparing his cases.

It was pointed out at the capitol that it is not necessary for any state representative to be designated, because Arnall can either get the information himself or send one of his associates to pick it up at the federal building.

The state of Georgia Tuesday filed a damage suit in federal district court seeking to recover a total of $384,081.39, representing three times the sums of which it was allegedly mulcted in paving material purchased in recent years.

Named as defendants were Hiram W. Evans, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, doing business as the Southeastern Construction Company; John W. Greer Jr., former State Highway Department purchasing agent, and two companies manufacturing emulsified asphalt.

Insurance Payment Levy Approved for Griffin

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

GRiffin, Ga., March 26.—City commissioners last night approved an ordinance calling for a one per cent tax on premiums paid for fire, lightning, burglary and theft insurance collected on property within the city limits.

The ordinance calls for a tax of one per cent, due April 1 of each calendar year, from each insurance company, firm, person or association writing such insurance in the city. A full report, to be made to the city manager for all such premiums collected, is required by the ordinance.

To give employment and to get employment . . . A Want Ad in The Constitution is equally effective in both cases.

Jackson Day Fete Attracts Movie Notable

Melvyn Douglas, Ex-Georgian, To Attend Dinner Here.

Melvyn Douglas, light comedian of the motion picture field and former Georgian, has accepted an invitation to appear as a special guest at the Jackson Day dinner to be given in Atlanta Saturday, it was announced yesterday by Ryburn G. Clay, state chairman. Douglas is a native of Macon.

Douglas' acceptance adds another star to the array of notables who will be present at the dinner at which former Governor O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, will appear as principal speaker.

Douglas' most recent picture is "Third Finger, Left Hand." He won notable success also as leading man for Greta Garbo in "Ni-nochka."

Democratic leaders of all factions are vying with each other to roll up a large list of reservations in their respective counties and favorable reports are rolling in every day, according to W. V. Crowley, treasurer.

Chairman Clay explained that an invitation to attend the Jackson Day dinner is being extended to each person who contributes $25 to the Democratic Party.

COMING HERE—Melvyn Douglas, movie comedian, will be one of the distinguished guests at the Jackson Day dinner here Saturday night.

Griffin Will Break Up 'Loitering and Loafing'

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

GRiffin, Ga., March 26.—Police Chief Stanley Harper had launched a drive today to break up "loitering and loafing" among young Negro men in Griffin who refuse to work. Seventeen Negroes were picked up late yesterday by city police and were sentenced to $30 or 30 days on charges of "habitual idling or loitering."

Late "prowling" at night also will be broken up, Chief Harper asserted, and in the future the 11:30 curfew law will be strictly enforced.

House Body Stresses Defense In Voting Civil Functions Bill

Heavy Appropriation Recommended for Panama Canal Work; River and Harbor Maintenance Get Large Reduction.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—With emphasis on defense works such as the Panama canal, the House Appropriations Committee approved today a $300,272,228 bill for the civil functions of the War Department—rivers and harbors, flood control and the like.

For the canal, the committee recommended $52,135,326 cash and contractual authority of $79,000,000, after Brigadier General Glen E. Edgerton, canal governor, reported that the third set of locks there probably would be completed in advance of the scheduled date, June 30, 1946. The new locks are expected to facilitate quick movement of the Navy from ocean-to-ocean, including accommodation of larger battleships.

Cash Total. Cash money in the bill totaled $221,272,228. This figure and the $79,000,000 contract authority for the canal were identical. The bureau suggested a $50,742,433 reduction from appropriations for the current year and the committee concurred.

The money is for use in the fiscal year beginning July 1. The largest reduction was in rivers and harbors maintenance and improvement for which the bureau and committee recommended $63,100,040 cash for next year as against $99,374,310 cash and $5,794,000 contractual authority for the current year.

Flood Control. The general flood control fund was increased to $71,129,000 from the current $70,055,000. Mississippi river flood control, however, was cut to $22,000,000 for the coming year from $30,000,000 available for the current period.

The largest segment of the Panama Canal fund was $34,932,000 for the new locks, to which were allocated all of the proposed new contractual authority. For the current year, congress provided $15,000,000 cash and $99,000,000 contract authority.

As in several other measures this session, the committee wrote into the bill a prohibition against use of any of the money to those who advocate overthrow of the United States government by force or violence.

Three Are Burned In Two Mishaps

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., March 26.—Three men were in hospitals here tonight with burns, two of them in serious condition, caused by blazing gasoline in two separate mishaps at Danville and Allentown, adjoining towns between here and Macon.

Denson Horne and James Hogue were burned, Horne severely, when they were pinned beneath a loaded lumber truck that overturned near Allentown. A resident of the vicinity saw the blaze in time to save them from burning to death. The accident occurred when Horne lost control of the truck on a down grade, it was reported.

Joe L. Brown, of Danville, was burned about the hands and body when gasoline caught fire while he was working on a truck.

Nazi Extension Of War Seen as Defiant Gesture

Inclusion of Iceland Doesn't Make Sense— Simpson.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.
Germany's action in extending her proclaimed war zone to waters off Greenland seems more of a defiant gesture against the American aid-for-Britain policy than a realistic move.

Inclusion of Iceland in the German blockade area on the theory that it is being used as a transshipment base, where England-bound cargoes are relayed from American to British merchantment, does not make sense. Yet it is the explanation offered in Berlin.

Officials in Washington deny that American ships have been going to Iceland. Moreover, the absence in either Iceland or Greenland of port facilities for unloading and reloading heavy cargoes would make British use of the ports for transshipment purposes unlikely. It would only lengthen very considerably the time required to get cargoes to Britain.

Nor does it seem likely that the British admiralty would establish a shipping base of any importance that close to Norwegian harbors and fiords, the certain lurking places of German surface raiders or long-range submarines.

If Russian cargo craft use the north Atlantic route to Murmansk to any extent, which is doubtful, the Nazi declaration might be more annoying to Moscow than to the United States or Britain. It throws a sink-on-sight threat athwart every sea approach to Murmansk, including Denmark Strait between Iceland and Greenland.

Berlin may have had that in mind, among other things in proclaiming the blockade extension. It might be a sort of left-handed retaliation for Russian intervention in the Balkan situation to oppose Nazi maneuvers.

To what extent Russian influences are at work behind the scenes in Yugoslavia to incite popular demonstrations against the regency government that surrendered to German pressure and aligned itself with the Axis is anybody's guess. That Moscow agents are at work there building up anti-Axis sentiment cannot be doubted.

Will Delay Attack.

If that accomplishes no other Russian purpose, it tends to delay a German attack on Greece while the internal situation in Yugoslavia clarifies. That attack may or may not be forthcoming. It seems unlikely to come soon, however.

It seems to be the immediate strategy of both Berlin and Belgrade to move cautiously. Probably they hope a cooling off period will serve to let the Yugoslavian popular outcry against the Belgrade-Axis deal simmer down beyond the danger point.

Atlanta's CAA Among Largest In the Nation

Technician's Day at Candler Field Is Busy, Important One.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.
Buzz, whine, click, hiss, tinkle and sputter—they're all in a CAA technician's day.

You may have thought a boiler factory a noisy establishment, but it has a rival in Uncle Sam's Airway Communication stations, of which Atlanta's, on the second floor of the administration building at Candler Field, is among the largest. It is manned by four men who are as busy as flitting hornets and scot across the office by sitting back in their chairs, giving a shove with their feet and relying upon the rollers to do the rest.

Dangerous Business.
It is a dangerous business these men are engaged in because any slight error might result in a disaster, but that adds to the glamour of it, even if everything these men do is strictly business.

The Atlanta station is a strategic point in southern airway travel and is the largest east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio rivers, which area comprises the second CAA district. Its staff and equipment equal that of the stations at New York, Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, Fort Worth and Los Angeles. For cities of comparable size the Atlanta office far outranks in importance.

There is a medley of clashing sound that arouses in the some-what mystified visitor a feeling of admiration that the human ear and hand can be trained to accurately translate the apparent confusion into orderly thought. From the multitude of machines, gadgets, indicators and automatic typewriters come buzzing, whining, clicking, hissing, tinkling, sputtering—but every sound seems to have a meaning. F. R. Robinson is the communication operator in charge, and he has three assistants.

THE WEATHER NOW—J. H. Boyd, CAA technician, is shown giving the weather report for Atlanta and vicinity. This particular report reaches the radius of planes nearing the field.

The room is actually divided into three parts, known technically as schedule A, schedule B and the radio section. Schedule A is composed of five teletypewriters and five reperforators and transmitters. Only one man is used on the circuit at a time, for he has to move around so rapidly that another person might hinder him. But he does not stay there all day. The work is too monotonous, they say. So each four hours out of the eight they are on duty they change their type of work.

In the schedule A room the principal duty is to gather and distribute weather information to aircraft, but it also serves as an auxiliary circuit for handling traffic control messages and aircraft movement reports. Its third duty is in connection with administrative dispatches.

Schedule B room is filled with four teletypewriters and three reperforators, which work in conjunction with the Airway Traffic Control, an entirely separate organization. Principal duty of this section is to handle aircraft movement reports and traffic which is associated with aircraft movement.

The most complicated unit appears to be the radio set-up. One receiver, of which there are five, operates on a CAA-assigned frequency of 266 kilocycles, which includes the beam frequency for airplanes and the monitor frequency. The monitor is simply a checking device for the other two. The second receiver, operating on 4,495 kilocycles, is for the Army and is used by army aircraft for contacting the communication office. Two other receivers, used by itinerant aircraft and anything other than scheduled flights, operate on 3,105 and 6,210 kilocycles. Then the fifth receiver is a spare for use if any of the other four develop trouble.

Each hour the station receives a weather report, which is checked at 20-minute intervals.

Shipping Officials Deny British Ship Overdue
NEW YORK, March 26.—(P)—Shipping officials said today that a report from San Pedro, Cal., yesterday that the British freighter Greystone Castle, 5,853 tons, was overdue was untrue.

The report said shipping officials in San Pedro declared the ship was two weeks overdue with 12 passengers and 8,900 tons of manganese, a defense material. Officials here declined to discuss the vessel other than to say she was safe.

Pardoned Barfield Put Back in Jail

Emmett A. Barfield, convicted lottery operator, yesterday was denied his freedom when Superior Judge Hugh M. Dorsey ruled two months was more than a "reasonable time" in which to comply with provisions of a pardon granted Barfield by former Governor Rivers.

Sentenced on December 9 to serve 12 months in prison, Barfield was pardoned by Rivers on December 23. He had been out of jail on bond while lawyers were preparing to appeal his case.

Arrested Monday because he had failed to pay a $50 fine stipulated in the pardon, Barfield attempted to win freedom through habeas corpus action.

The lottery operator, who has a criminal record listing 13 convictions for charges ranging from wife beating and bootlegging to fishing with baskets, claimed on the witness stand yesterday that he paid "a lawyer named Gardner, or something like that," $250 to get him his pardon.

Use of Secret Ballot in Fulton Rests on Jury

Only One Recommendation Necessary To Obtain Its Adoption.

Now that the secret ballot is available to voters in Georgia, its use in future Fulton elections depends entirely upon the recommendation of a single grand jury in Fulton county.

The bill passed both branches of the 1941 legislature and was among the first signed by the Governor. It provides for a ballot free of any identification in those counties which request its adoption through grand jury recommendation.

The secret ballot consists of three parts, separated by perforations so that each section can be easily torn off. The main part, of course, is the ballot itself, but it contains no number or identifying letters.

Attached to the ballot proper are two stubs, each containing the same number. When a voter receives the ballot, he writes his name on the top stub, tears it off and gives it to an election officer. After the ballot has been filled out, the official checks the number on the name-slip he holds with the number on the ballot stub.

If they correspond, the voter is permitted to tear the second stub from the ballot, giving it to the official, and then depositing the ballot proper in the box. By this procedure, officials can see that only qualified persons vote, but cannot check on the identity of any voter's ballot.

Such a system can be adopted in any county upon the recommendation of one grand jury. If, after one year, the system is no longer desired, it can be repealed by similar grand jury recommendation.

Hungarian Actress

Weds in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—(AP) Ilona Massey, blonde Hungarian-born actress, and Actor Alan Curtis were married today.

Miss Massey, who is 30, was divorced several years ago from Nicholas Szavozd, Hungarian financier. Curtis, 31, was divorced last year from Priscilla Lawson, an actress.

HE JUST WENT BY—Who? Why, the sandman, of course. Chief Yeoman Francis McGrath and Mrs. McGrath, en route from Honolulu to Norfolk, Va., had to see the customs man when the S. S. Mariposa docked at San Francisco. Francis Michael McGrath, waiting, felt his eyelids grow heavier, heavier. At last, he succumbed, but Spike, his companion, remained alertly on the watch.

Strikebound Tractor Factory Told to Reopen

"make any changes in the wage scale and has insisted that the union abandon its right to sign up members or collect dues in the shipyards as a condition to signing an agreement."

In Washington, Clarence A. Dykstra let it be known that the Defense Mediation Board would keep in close touch with labor controversies throughout the country despite its lack of authority to act until conciliation efforts have failed.

He so informed reporters in Washington after telegraphing Governor Arthur H. James, of Pennsylvania, that the board was powerless to intervene in the Bethlehem Steel strike until the case had been certified to it by the secretary of labor.

Dykstra expressed "deep concern for a speedy settlement" and said he understood federal and state conciliators were working "earnestly" to bring this about.

James had wired Dykstra asking intervention.

"We want to know what's going on," Dykstra told newsmen in discussing the board's intention to keep in contact with disputes not yet referred to it. He added that the Office of Production Management and the Labor Department had promised to keep the board advised of all cases before them.

Threatened Strikes. In line with this assurance, the OPM turned over to the board during the day a list of threatened strikes in 12 defense industries which would involve 62,550 workers.

All was quiet on the strike fronts themselves, in contrast with Tuesday's violence in Bethlehem, Pa., and Chicago. Large detachments of police maintained order at the Bethlehem Steel plant and at the International Harvester Company's McCormick works in Chicago. Late in the day a few pickets took up posts outside the Bethlehem gates, under the watchful eyes of state police, who declared that only "peaceful picketing" would be permitted.

John V. Riffe, CIO official in charge of the Bethlehem strike, telegraphed federal authorities that company officials had refused to meet with the strikers' representatives "in an effort to settle the existing labor trouble." Riffe previously had announced that such a meeting had been arranged for yesterday morning.

Prepare for Siege. While both company and CIO union officials got set for a possible prolonged strike, workmen passed in and out of the Bethlehem Steel Company's home plant under the eye of state police.

A company official announced that "almost 80 per cent" of the normal day force of 8,500 was on duty and that steel making departments, busy on part of the company's billion dollars in defense contracts, were operating "at full capacity."

The CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee, which called the walkout Monday, told its members not to be "fooled by" newspaper smoke from the company stacks. The union had claimed earlier the strike was 90 per cent effective, but made no new estimate yesterday.

Get-Together "Soon." Although a projected conference between SWOC spokesmen and a company representative was called off, Thomas Lambert, a federal conciliator, said he understood there would be a get-together "soon."

(A United Press report from Bethlehem said the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee announced last night that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation had agreed to meet with strike leaders at 10:30 a. m. today.)

The announcement was made at a mass meeting of strikers by Lee Hall, general CIO organizer assigned to the Bethlehem organization campaign.)

Across the state at Johnstown, Pa., a threatened strike at the company's Cambria plant failed to materialize, but the SWOC stuck to earlier statements it may carry the walkout there and to other Bethlehem plants.

The issue at Johnstown developed over an announced election of bargaining representatives by the "Employees' Representation Plan. The SWOC contends the ERP is a company-dominated union and illegal.

The strike was called after the independent group began its election Monday. A similar election was scheduled in Johnstown, but was called off by the ERP—at least temporarily.

By way of a railroad that runs into its sprawling property, the company received a large shipment of supplies apparently intended for a long siege should that develop.

The shipments included 5,000 mattresses and beds, food and cigars. Workmen who did not join the strike remained inside the plant on cots and in railroad sleeping cars. Food was served from railroad diners converted into kitchens.

HEARING IN FORD ROW CONCLUDED

DETROIT, March 26.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board, without hearing testimony from Henry and Edsel Ford, tonight concluded its hearing on a petition of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) for employee elections at the Rouge and Lincoln plants of the Ford Motor Company.

Attorneys entered stipulations agreeing to the facts concerning four principal points at issue, and the union's counsel, Maurice Sugar, withdrew his demands that Henry Ford, company founder, and Edsel Ford, its president, appear as witnesses along with Harry Bennett, company personnel director.

Attorneys have five days in which to file briefs containing their written arguments or to request permission to submit oral arguments to the NLRB in Washington. The NLRB at Washington will give a decision.

STRIKE TO CONTINUE, CIO LEADER SAYS

MILWAUKEE, March 26.—(AP)—The strike at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company will "go on" until the union membership votes otherwise, Harold Christoffel, president of the CIO-United Automobile Workers local at the plant, declared tonight.

Christoffel said that a meeting of the union membership had been called for Saturday morning "to act on the entire strike situation."

If the company attempts to call the union membership back to work before that time, the union will not heed its call, Christoffel said.

Wide Variety Marks Movies Opening Here

Schedule of Entertainment for Weekend Begins Today.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

When it rains it pours. Take a look at the schedule of entertainment for Atlanta's weekend, beginning today.

Opening this afternoon at the Fox is Errol Flynn and Brenda Marshall on the screen in "Footsteps in the Dark" with the singer, John Boles, appearing in person on the stage. Tonight he will get some competition at the auditorium where Bill "Bojangles" Robinson will dance and the Deep River Boys will sing. The Roxy begins a chill program this afternoon featuring both "The Monster and the Girl" and "The Mad Doctor."

Tomorrow the entertainment world will offer "The Bad Man" with Wallace Beery at the Loew's Grand theater, and Frank Morgan will head a fine cast of youngsters in "Hullabaloo" at the Rialto.

Saturday afternoon and night the Ballet Russe will be dancing at the Erlanger theater. The Capitol will offer "Scattergood Baines" on the screen and a new stage attraction beginning for a week Sunday.

Holding over will be "Western Union" at the Paramount. And Nick Lucas, the Singing Troubadour, opens in the Rainbow room Monday.

Fox.

Errol Flynn and his girl Brenda (Marshall) forget costumes for a change in "Footsteps in the Dark" to do a modern comedy rather than romantic day adventure at the Fox this week.

Sharing billing will be Singer John Boles, appearing for four shows daily on the stage and offering an informal singing program.

In "Footsteps in the Dark" the usually brusque Flynn is pictured as a retiring young man, afraid of the advances of a burlesque queen, whom he, as an amateur detective, is trying to make help him solve a murder.

Flynn leads a double life. One is a mystery story writer; the other is that of the amateur detective.

Roxy.

Ellen Drew finds herself in the midst of a double mystery-horror plot at the Roxy this week where she is featured as the lovely girl almost, but never quite, the victim of a series of murders.

In one, "The Mad Doctor," she is under the spell of an insane quack physician, played by Basil Rathbone, and marries him against the entreaties of John Howard before she sees him actually commit murder. Then he turns on her in an eerie finish.

In the second, "The Monster and the Girl," Ellen finds herself worshipped by a horrible dumb beast, a gorilla, who kills all who come near her. What causes this blind devotion is the plot of the thriller.

Loew's.

To make a career of being bad a man really has to be good... at least as good as that veteran villain of the films, Wallace Beery.

"This rumored in some circles that Wally has caused so many shivers and shudders through his portrayals of wickedness, that if said shivers and shudders were to be laid end to end, they would cause an earthquake, a volcanic disturbance, and a world tidal wave, all rolled into one."

Now, up to his naughty two-gun tricks and his habit of leering at horrified young ladies, Wally will be seen tomorrow at Loew's, as the bandit, Pancho Lopez, in the famous stage thriller, "The Bad Man."

Of course, being a wrong 'un comes easy to Wally now, as what with such double-dyed practice as his sensational roles in "Viva Villa," "The Big House," and other such portrayals. Being bad, though, is tough work for a man like Wally, who, in private life, likes nothing so much as playing games with his little baby daughter, or doing a bit of gardening around the house. But in "The Bad Man," he sternly ignores his heart of gold as he rides through Mexico with his bandit followers, terrorizing such nice people as Lionel Barrymore, Laraine Day and Ronald Reagan.

In fact, Wally is so ornery, that he really seems to mean it when he says, bloodcurdlingly, "I feel my prisoners because only the dead ones can I trust."

Rialto.

Frank Morgan, Virginia Grey, Dan Dailey Jr., Billie Burke, Donald Meek, Nydia Westman, Reginald Owen and others among Hollywood's most popular players, are to be found in the cast of "Hullabaloo" the feature attraction at the Rialto, theater beginning tomorrow.

It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture and tells a story of romance and comedy that is side-splitting. Incidentally, it incorporates in the plot that incident of not so long ago when large numbers of Americans became terrified because they took literally a radio broadcast describing an invasion of the earth by creatures from another planet.

The story turns on a young professional golf champion who, much against his will, becomes involved in business when his prospective father-in-law makes him vice president of a radio station. Of course, he really doesn't love the girl, and when his new duties bring him in contact with another swell girl he finds out his mistake.

Capitol.

"Scattergood Baines," which opens a week's engagement at the Capitol theater Sunday, is the first of a series of motion pictures based on Clarence Budington Kelland's famous character of fiction and the airwaves. In the title role of the "most famous storekeeper in the world" will be seen Guy Kibbee, a veteran actor. Kibbee's performance, according to advance preview reports from the coast, is said to be a memorable one destined to rank among some of his greatest achievements.

Setting for the simple story is the famous fictional town of "Coldriver," which provides the background for an action-filled plot that leads to a stirring climax. In support of the star, a selected cast will include Emma Dunn as "Scattergood's" wife; Carol Hughes and John Archer as the romantic interests, and "Dick" Trout from the radio series, as "Scattergood's" foil. Willie Best, colored comedian, supplies the humorous touches.

The Capitol also will offer the new stage revue, "Femmes 'n' Fun."

The Capitol's current program, which has Lloyd Nolan in "Behind the News" on the screen and "American Jamboree," vaudeville revue, on the stage, continues through Saturday.

Paramount.

"Western Union," an accounting of the stringing of the first transcontinental telegraph line, done in gorgeous technicolor, opens a holdover engagement at the Paramount theater today.

Starring in the western-Indian fighting film are Randolph Scott, Virginia Gilmore, Robert Young, Dean Jagger, Slim Summerville and John Carradine.

Padlock Asked Against 18 in Dry Counties

Liquor Sales Charged in Laurens, Johnson Places.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., March 26.—The solicitor-general's office today filed petitions with Superior Judge R. Earl Camp for padlock orders to close 15 places of business charged with selling liquor in "dry" Laurens county, and one place in Johnson, where sale is also prohibited.

Judge Camp set a hearing for April 19. The action followed raids made last week by state revenue agents, resulting in what the agents described as the "second largest confiscation of whisky in a dry Georgia county."

Solicitor Emory S. Baldwin Jr., acting for Solicitor General J. Eugene Cook, who signed the petitions, requested authority to close the places as "public nuisances."

"We are acting upon evidence turned over to us by the state men, and because a group of citizens, the recent Laurens county grand jury and the Dublin city council have all urged that the dry law be enforced," Baldwin said.

The petitions are directed against 16 defendants in Laurens county and two in Johnson.

TO HELP DEFEAT HITLER. LONDON, March 26.—(P)—Formation of a "union of German Socialist organizations in Great Britain" was announced today by German Socialist groups who said their objective was to aid in the struggle for the "defeat of Hitler and his allies."

Approved for Augusta
AUGUSTA, Ga., March 26.—(P)—This city will spend about $1,500,000 for operations the next fiscal year, according to a budget approved by the municipal authorities.

Major items will be $189,000 for the police and $184,000 for the fire department. Both departments are under direction of Commissioner John B. Kennedy.

First U. S. Land Check Arrives At Hinesville

J. M. Wood, of Bellville, Receives Payment of $1,900.

HINESVILLE, Ga., March 26.—(P)—The first check to pay for land taken by the United States government for the Army's anti-aircraft firing range, covering 76,800 acres, has been received here.

It was sent to J. M. Wood, of Bellville, in Evans county, amounting to $1,900 in payment for a tract in the Taylor Creek section of Liberty county.

Landowners and tenants completed evacuation of the property last Monday midnight in conformity with a court order. Army officers are taking every precaution to clear the area before firing the big guns which hurl shells as far as 17 miles.

A total of $667,000 has been deposited in Savannah banks to cover payments for the land. Owners who accept the government appraisal will receive their checks as soon as they execute deeds to their property.

Others are contesting the price and while losing their land through condemnation proceedings will take the question of value before federal court juries.

Let Us Be Prepared

There is a dangerous tendency in this country to assume, because of the passage of the lease-lend bill and of the $7,000,000,000 appropriation measure to implement it, the defeat of Hitlerism is now assured and there is no further reason to worry about it all.

In the long run this is undoubtedly true. Neither triumphant Nazis, the entire Axis nor any other world force can finally crush this country once it puts forth all its potential power.

But, from the viewpoint of the immediate emergency, the danger is not over. On the other hand the outlook grows darker day by day.

Unless something is done quickly to solve the problem of transatlantic transport there is very real danger that Hitler will succeed in choking Britain into defeat. Sinkings of British cargo ships carrying precious supplies both of munitions and of food, from this side of the Atlantic, are too large to be regarded as anything short of a very serious menace.

It is evident the British Navy, great as it is, is not capable of adequately coping both with the problem of controlling the Mediterranean, policing the sea lanes of the world and keeping safe the vital route from America to Europe.

Again, recent bombings of British port cities may well constitute as great, or greater danger to the supply line than the sinkings of ships. How serious to the actual port facilities the bombings of Liverpool, of Bristol, of Plymouth, of Glasgow, of other ports have been we do not know. But, if they continue they cannot fail to create a vicious stranglehold around the throat of a country which must import to live.

It is no use for America to expend ten times seven billions on supplies for Britain, if the net result of that effort leaves those supplies at the bottom of the ocean or unable to find a port at which to be unloaded.

It may be expected that, immediately after his return from his present cruise, or before, President Roosevelt will take important steps to solve this Atlantic transport problem. It is likely it will mean participation of American naval vessels in the conveying of merchant shipments over the Atlantic. At least, our warships will probably provide the safeguard on this side of the Atlantic, thus reducing the length of route over which the British navy has to extend its protection.

That this will be one step, a long step, closer to active participation in the war goes without saying. But that cannot be helped. This nation is irrevocably committed to every effort it can make for the defeat of Hitler and his Nazis and that means that we can stop short of nothing necessary to achieve that result.

Undoubtedly there are dark days ahead. Britain will have to undergo more severe punishment than she has yet known. The people of that little island, last bastion of liberty on our side of Europe, will probably face hunger and death in ratios yet untasted. The Nazis may attempt that long-deferred invasion and the pleasant fields of England may yet become battlefields drenched with the blood of enemies and made more sacred even than before with the blood of Englishmen fighting on their own dear soil.

It would be inestimably better for this nation to employ its navy, its merchant marine, its seamen and its engineers, in keeping open the Atlantic highway of freedom, than to see Britain choked and beaten to death and then to face the common foe of all democracies, alone.

Pilot Training

One of the most encouraging, but little credited, aspects of America's growing air strength lies in the Civilian Pilot Training Program. There has been an undercurrent of criticism against the program in some quarters, so it is only fair to examine figures that give a fairer picture.

Some 4,813 youths trained in the preliminary course have entered the armed services. This constitutes 11 per cent of the total, chiefly drawn from college students. Most of those not entering the armed services still are in school, a status encouraged by the government. In this connection it should be noted that the draft law provides for deferment until the end of the school year for draftees; many of the students in the flying courses, too, have not reached 21 and accordingly are not eligible for the draft. They do possess basic flight training, however, and it would not be difficult to provide for their service as needed in defense programs.

Both the Army and Navy are obtaining students as fast as they can be trained with present facilities. One out of five trainees entering these schools are CPT graduates.

The CAA also points out another little known phase of the flight program, citing that 941 flight instructors trained in the civilian pilot work have left for service in various fields associated with the defense effort. Of these, 468 are training youths in the Army's primary training centers, 27 have gone into Naval training schools and 117 to Canadian flight centers. Ninety-six are in active service with the Army, 26 with the Navy. Two hundred and seven have gone to airlines as replacements. In addition, a steady flow of these flight instructors now is being created to feed Army and Navy requirements. From that standpoint alone, the CAA program would appear to justify itself.

That the instructors and pilots being produced are above the average is indicated by statistics showing the program is five times safer than any previous record of the country as a whole in flight training. Students have been flying 4,500,000 miles per fatality.

The chief value of the civilian pilot training program is that it is the greatest reservoir available to feed the growing air services. The manpower is not needed now, but the reservoir is definitely necessary. Certainly the country cannot start from scratch when large numbers of pilots are needed—in a hurry.

If the incendiary bombers come, Hank Greenberg's flat feet will be fine for stamping out a grass fire in left field.

An Intelligent Plan

The proposal is made by Lieutenant Colonel B. G. Owens, medical officer of Georgia Selective Service headquarters, that that service co-operate with the State Board of Health in providing treatment for Georgians turned down for military service because of venereal disease.

Such a plan is highly important and it is surprising that no other state, according to available information, has yet tried the same method. Under the plan as outlined, any man turned down for this reason would be sent a notice by his local draft board telling him he should report for treatment of the disease. Those able to pay for treatment would be sent to their local doctors. Free treatment would be provided through the county health clinics for those unable to pay.

There is a law in Georgia which provides that persons with venereal disease may be prosecuted if they do not seek treatment.

Inasmuch as approximately 10 per cent of draft rejections for physical defects are because of syphilis the importance of any plan for reaching those infected and for seeing that they are cured is self-evident. Such a drain upon the health, the vitality, the manpower of the state is exceedingly serious. The direct loss is tremendous, but the indirect loss to the state, both in this and in future generations, is incalculable.

FRITZ AND ADOLF
(From The Brunswick News.)

There was a time when Fritz Thyssen and Adolf Hitler meant a lot to each other. Fritz did not like the Communists. He was the richest man in Germany, and he did not want to turn over his 60,000 dwellings, half of Germany's coal mines, practically all of Germany's steel production, and all the rest of his $88,000,000 fortune to a bunch of proletarians.

So Fritz supported Adolf, who at that time did not like Communists either, and who held out promises of protecting the German capitalist system. It is very likely that if it had not been for Fritz, Adolf would not be where he is today. Fritz supplied the money which enabled Adolf to organize his Nazi party.

But Fritz did not know Adolf. When he got to power, Adolf forgot Fritz. Adolf confiscated a lot of Fritz's property, which was just about the last thing Fritz wanted. And then Adolf signed a peace pact with the Russian Communists, and Fritz decided to get out. He went to France, leaving his property behind.

And then Adolf conquered France and demanded that Fritz be turned back to him. And now Fritz is reported a prisoner in the Nazi concentration camp at Dachau.

Thus ends the latest lesson on the perfidy of Adolf Hitler. He is not to be believed on a stack of "Mein Kampfs."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE PRESIDENT'S GUESTS WASHINGTON, March 26.—The New Dealers are tossing their hats in the air over the President's choice of guests for his vacation cruise. Since defense and foreign policy became the President's only preoccupations, most of the youthful lawyers and economists who compose the New Deal rank and file have felt sadly left out. But with their chief remaining leaders, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, aboard the President's holiday ship, they hope for better things to come.

Thus far, Jackson and Ickes have had almost as little to do with defense and foreign policy as the less conspicuous and more youthful New Dealers. Jackson has thrice played a part, resisting too great "encroachments" by businessmen when the original defense commission was established, when the OPM was formed from the defense commission, and when the OPM's legal division was organized. Ickes' only regular contact with defense and foreign policy has been at cabinet meetings—always fairly meaningless gatherings. Neither has made any secret of his distaste for the predominance of new influences in the administration.

AGAIN, "WHO'S BOSS?" The hopeful New Dealers believe that Jackson and Ickes were invited to join the President on his holiday for two main purposes. First, relations between Ickes and Harry L. Hopkins have been extremely cool since the days of the great row between WPA and PWA, and reached the freezing point when Ickes accused Hopkins of botching the Chicago convention. While not unfriendly, relations between Jackson and Hopkins have never been intimate. Hopkins, now the President's personal assistant in most problems arising out of the war, is also aboard. It is thought that by throwing his henchmen together in the enforced intimacy of a long sea voyage, the President planned to transform them into a happy band of brothers.

Second, besides such essentially international problems as the shipping emergency, of which neither Jackson nor Ickes can know much, decisions are necessary on a great number of problems with larger domestic implications, such as the real policy of defense. About these both Jackson and Ickes have very strong opinions indeed. It is thought that it is also the President's purpose both to consult Jackson and Ickes on problems of this type while on his cruise, and to arrange for more regular advice from them after his return to the White House. This is the real reason for the New Dealers' jubilation. They feel that when their leaders are regular White House advisors again, their own return to importance will not be long delayed.

To the impartial observer, the New Dealers' sentiments are significant chiefly as indications of the real state of affairs in the administration. The trend that began last July, when the New Dealers were practically excluded from the defense effort and William S. Knudsen led the businessmen's march on Washington, has now reached full maturity. The result would never have been industrialists, police, police-fighting task. Partly owing to the opposition of men like Jackson and Ickes, the businessmen at the OPM have little voice except in the practical questions of defense production, and even here must consult Knudsen's co-director, Sidney Hillman, and his subordinates. Instead, the big job of policy formation is now in the hands of a brand new group, composed of moderates and middle of the roaders.

NEW POLICY-MAKERS The new group is no cabal or junta, joyed by the New Dealers in the days when Thomas G. Corcoran was their liaison man, and contains men of widely differing characters, abilities and beliefs. Yet it is well enough defined to be roughly enumerated. It includes the members of the new War Cabinet Committee, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and the committee government posts, such as Under Secretary of War Robert Patterson, Under Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, Assistant Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson, and Patterson's two War Department allies, John J. McCloy and Robert Lovett; several recruits from among the New Dealers, such as Benjamin V. Cohen, the Treasury General Counsel Edward Foley, and his assistant, Oscar Cox; and one or two private presidential cronies, such as former Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

The common denominators of this group are three in number. First, their only continuing concern is with successful prosecution of the war effort. Their comparative single-mindedness is their chief strength. Second, the businessmen among them do not share the eating suspicion of all government men common among Knudsen's industrialists, while the government men—even the New Deal recruits—do not regard all businessmen as damnable ex-officio. fusions that have afflicted American policy to date, and determined to see the job done quickly and forcefully in the future.

Although only a number of like-minded men who generally work easily together, the new group is an extremely important phenomenon. As it broadly represents the average of informed American opinion, and contains much more than the average of intelligence and ability, it should also be a confidence-producing phenomenon. And as Harry L. Hopkins has shown every evidence of being the like-minded man since his return from Britain, it is not likely to be overruled by any palace revolution, however much a revolution may be desired and hoped for.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Memories of World War Days.

It was not my fortune, for good or bad, to be accepted for military service during the first World War. This being so, I did what I could to help, right here in Atlanta. Somewhere at home there is a little medal that attests whatever I did was appreciated, at least.

But here, in Atlanta, there are some mighty interesting things to learn and to see and to find out about the war and its ramifications. Remind me some day to tell you the story of the German spy who was caught at the corner of Peachtree and North avenue. Or of the interned German prisoner, in the reservation back of Fort McPherson, who was shot and killed by the sentry on guard duty. Or of the tunnel dug by others of those prisoners from beneath the flooring of their sleeping quarters almost to and below the barbed wire fence surrounding the place, several hundred feet away.

But today I am thinking of a story that appeared in your morning paper this week. It was an interview with Major General James C. Magee, surgeon general of the United States Army. He discussed vicious conditions near Army camps and told how the federal government will step in, under authorization of a bill now before congress, to clean up and control such areas, if the local authorities fail to do the job.

And I got to thinking of the same problem and what they did about it in the days when 80,000 or 100,000 men were training at Camp Gordon, with other McPherson and other Army centers hereabouts.

Special Department.

The government had a special department just for that purpose. Southeastern headquarters were in the Healey building and, although I've completely forgotten his name, I remember with a lot of pleasure my acquaintance with the officer in charge for the area.

We had a reporter in those days assigned to Camp Gordon. He did nothing else. Spent the entire day there and came into the office in the late afternoon with his copy. Rode a motorcycle, with sidecar, to and from the camp.

Late one afternoon he came in, as usual, wrote his stuff, and turned it in to the city desk. I was city editor then. Looking over that batch of copy, found a story which said two small hotels in Atlanta were ordered, by the Camp Gordon military police, out of bounds for men in uniform, because both places were little better than red-light assignment dumps. (They were tenth-rate joints, of course, both long out of business today.)

The orders were to be effective at 4 o'clock the following morning and sentries were to be placed in front of each hotel to see that no uniformed men entered. The hotels were on the same street, almost facing each other.

I checked with our reporter at the police station. They had a branch headquarters of the military police there, with a detachment in command of a lieutenant. The reporter at police station verified the story.

So we published it. But, inasmuch as the hour of effectiveness was 4 a. m., we had to write it in advance, but in the past tense. Although the paper would not be delivered to the subscribers, or on the streets, until after 4. And thereby we got in trouble.

For, when the order finally came out, it applied to one hotel only. There was no mention of the other. And the proprietor of the hotel not mentioned promptly sued the paper for some tremendous sum in damages.

What to do?

A Few Days To Worry In.
Well, sir, for several days I worried about that damage suit. For there didn't seem any way of getting around it. We had named the hotel, said it was outlawed for soldiers because of immorality rampant there. And it had not been so declared by the police.

Finally I went to see my friend, the head of that organization for the control of vice near Army camps, in his office in the Healey building. After I'd told my story he smiled and said he'd fix us up with castron defense. Then he explained he had given the original orders for the hotels' closing. Two hotels. Had transmitted it to Camp Gordon which, in turn, had transmitted it to the M. P. detachment at police station. In turn, the lieutenant in command there had passed it on to his men. And, somewhere in transit, the name of one of the hotels had been accidentally dropped. But both were named in the original order. That original order had been sent by Western Union. My friend showed me, in his files, the original telegraphed order. And got for

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Second New York, March 26.—Now, if I were given the task of cleaning house in the American Federation of Labor the second thing I would do, after throwing out the crooks who infect many of the local and international unions, and bouncing Gangster George Browne out of the executive council, would be to go after the official press of the organization. This press, with few exceptions, has become a controlled voice by which men who have sins and errors to hide are able to raise a clamor for the purpose of kidding the rank and file members. The rank and file pay for the support of these papers as one of the duties of membership, but the union bosses use them to protect and promote themselves.

But it is the AFL itself which stands in the worst need of a public relations man and a wise, courageous press.

At present the workers in the AFL unions are paying a good salary to Philip Pearl, of Washington, to do their public relations work. How well he has done his task for them may be judged by the fact that the AFL has had in the last couple of years about the worst press that has been had in this country since Ferdinand Pecora had Wall Street in the grease.

Difficult Task This public relations job is one of the most difficult in the United States today, and, as one who has some experience in the newspaper business, I can say that the task calls for wise counsel and frank facing of facts more than ghosted speeches and abusive press hand-outs. And someone certainly has been giving William Green very bad advice on public relations in the last couple of years. Obviously, the AFL recognizes its own need of public relations counsel, for otherwise Mr. Pearl's job wouldn't exist. The mistake was made about two years ago when, suddenly, it was revealed that the AFL was badly poisoned by a corrupt condition which had been allowed to run for decades and was now dangerous to the very life of the organization.

But what counsel did Mr. Green follow then, if he took any counsel at all? Why, instead of admitting the facts and announcing that the AFL had been guilty of honest neglect but would try to clean up, Mr. Green first tried the old, pompous, bulldozing tactics which had worked so well for years and, when these failed, raised the cry of "labor baiting." In other words, anyone who tried to drag the crooks off the necks of the rank and file members was an enemy of labor.

Mr. Green got off on that track, and he hasn't been able to un-track himself since, whereas a wise counselor would have taken a leaf out of the book of Ivy Lee, who started the world years back by advising the Rockefeller family to come clean and turn square.

Should Have Checked Facts Last year Mr. Green issued a series of articles in which he undertook to turn aside the revelations of criminality more by abusing the accuser than by denying the allegations. Mr. Pearl tells me he did not exactly ghost this copy but that he did "look it over," which means to me that at least he should have checked the facts for accuracy. But Mr. Green was allowed to say that the accuser (meaning me) was a member of a CIO union, which was probably false, and that he did not know of the criminal past of George Scalise until he saw it in these dispatches, whereas, in fact, he had endorsed Scalise's appeal for a pardon long before the record was printed here.

That the sort of public relations work which the rank and file of the AFL are getting for their money. For the rest of it they are getting a weekly column by Mr. Pearl available to all the little papers of various unions in which he ignores charges and facts to defend Green's prestige and his own job of abusing the accuser.

Word Stories

By W. Worthington Wells

Everyone's vocabulary should contain an abundance of "nice" words. Words which denote pleasant surroundings, festivity, jovial, companionship, good-fellowship, pleasantness, associations in cherishing friends, etc.

We propose CONVIVIAL as a word that should be in your daily vocabulary if it is not already. It is a pleasant word. It contains no connotations of suggested "other meanings."

If you have enjoyed a convivial cup of wine with a cherished friend; there is no way to construe that sentence other than that you had a pleasant time. Convivial surroundings, festivities, associations, etc., denote pleasure and happiness.

Convivial is an adjective pronounced con-VIV-i-al with the accent on the second syllable viv. (Con) is like that in convince, (viv) has a short i like that in Nashville, sound the second v. (i) is like that in ill, and the (al) is like that in crystal. The last two syllables i-al sound something like yal.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

ARGENTINE BEEF In talking with Jim Farley in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon, he discussed the problem which this country has in winning friendships in South America. He was of the opinion this country could afford to buy 100,000 tons of Argentine beef each year and not seriously affect the domestic market.

This may sound like a lot of beef to the housewife, accustomed to buying two pounds of pot roast, but actually 100,000 tons is not much beef in the world market.

We will hear more and more about Argentine beef because Argentina is one of the important countries in South America. We want the friendship of that country. Its chief product is beef. To date this country has kept beef from the Argentine out by a subterfuge, forbidding it because of an inadequacy of hoof-and-mouth disease inspection.

The Navy now wishes to buy some food supplies. It can get better corned beef for a third less than it can be bought in this country. The Argentine puts choice cuts, having a surplus of beef, into their cans. In this country the canned beef is, as far as I know, always of the cheaper grades. In the trade it is known as "canner cows."

The house must now concur in the recent, and somewhat historic, decision by the senate. The vote was a tie. Vice President Henry Wallace, out of the senate chamber at the time of the vote, could have assisted himself and his country's effort at friendship with South America by breaking the tie. The tie was broken by Georgia's junior senator, Richard B. Russell, who was present and voted but whose vote was not recorded. Senator Russell thus did a real service in assisting the administration policy of "the good neighbor." But the house must concur before the Navy may buy a few pounds of beef.

THE CORN LOANS Our position in the matter of Argentine beef is not as simple as it seems. We have corn loans which most farm experts insist work against production of pork and beef. We have a semi-shortage of meat and already prices are going up and the housewives are beginning to talk.

It is not good sense to further the shortage by demanding the Army and Navy cut into the already existing shortage. The corn loans receive most of the criticism. This loan formula graduates the loan rate downward with the rise of the current crop instead of with the rise of the total corn supply.

This discourages farmers, in the great corn and livestock belts, from feeding corn and encourages them to store it. The production of pork is especially retarded and, to a lesser degree, beef and poultry. Nothing has been done to ask congress to change this situation. The demand for all meats is going to rise. Prices, must of necessity, rise with the demand. Meat is a national defense necessity. Meat builds muscle and energy. It is, pork, beef and lamb, good for the busy person. As more and more people go into defense work, more meat will be consumed. Increased wages will send their share into purchases of meat. Also, Greece, China and England will be coming into the market for purchase of meats.

The government urges farmers to produce more pork, beef and poultry and, by maintaining the high corn loans, makes it more profitable not to produce it.

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR As Mr. Farley says, one cannot eat with French dressing. Culture goes along with trade. The culture of Europe was adopted by South America because its trade was with Europe. It is only in recent years we have made a dent in South American trade. Mostly we have sent South America our best wishes, tourists, theorists and bums.

The good neighbor policy is getting results but your Latin is a realist. He understands that if his own business is good he can buy some of our own goods. The American products are good ones. They are worth a bit more.

Germany, for instance, offers certain types of electric light bulbs, for a quarter of a cent to wholesalers in the South American countries. These are made with slave labor and are subsidized by the government. Wholesalers can buy German-made typewriters for $11. And so on. These goods are not of good quality. But they work for a time. Our globes, selling at ten cents or thereabouts, are better globes.

We demand money. Germany or Japan or even England will take beef or hides or raw products in exchange. So, while they think it is very nice of us to want to be good neighbors, they would prefer it said with trade instead of with sonnets or official papers, embossed and covered with beribboned wax seals.

Until we do make some deals with the Argentine and with other South American neighbors, the good neighbor policy is going to be thwarted by Nazi propaganda and barter of cheap goods. One of these days we've got to take the bull by the horns—even that of the Argentine beef steer—which horns of dilemma we thus far have avoided—with consequent loss of friendship and trade.

Freedom Will Not Die If It Seems More Dear Than Life

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Near the town of Winlock, Washington, there is a settlement of Finns. They are good citizens, industrious and prosperous. They came to America when the oldest now living were youngsters, and settled on a tract of stumpled land bought by their advance agent. While the men cut trees to make cabins and barns, the women cut the wild hay with hand scythes, tied it up in bedsheets, and carried it home on their heads. They are that kind of people.

For some years, Americans made much of the fact that Finland paid her war debt. This amused the Finns, for it wasn't a war debt, but represented money borrowed for expansion after the war ended, and they never considered it remarkable that an honest man should pay his debts.

But now they are doing something that is remarkable. They are pulling themselves up by their bootstraps. And the thing they are doing is an example and a lesson and an inspiration to all free people in the world.

The brutal Russian raid, which was nothing more than a looting expedition on a grand scale, left Finland sorely crippled. One-third of her young men were maimed or killed; one-third of her territory lost.

The lost region was a land of dairy farms, power plants, fisheries and lumber towns. And the inhabitants were forced to leave, taking only such possessions as they could carry.

If some invader should seize a third of America and drive the people out, would you welcome them and share your possessions with them? It seems unlikely, yet people forget mine and thine in time of shipwreck or disaster.

The Finns made room for their dispossessed neighbors. The farmer who had 100 acres gave 15; the man who had 1,000 gave 600. And this land was pooled and divided among the newcomers. Food supplies were pooled, also, so that nobody went hungry.

The people didn't settle down to live on relief. They made jobs for themselves, as the pioneers did. And today there is no idleness in Finland, nor hunger nor hopelessness. What is more astounding, this little land so lately crushed and bankrupt, has somehow contrived to rearm and is again ready to fight for liberty.

Freemen cannot be defeated by serfs if they are worthy of freedom.

World Authority In Trolley Car Solves Everything.

Few days ago I got up too late to read this excellent newspaper, so I sneaked it out of the house to read on the townbound trolley. But just behind me sat two men. One was as quiet as a lone tomb. Perhaps he was deaf—because his companion told him what was what in tones which must easily have impressed the motorman up in front.

I have never trained my various senses, if any, to isolate themselves. I can't read a book—and know what the story is about—with the radio going strong. And I couldn't read my paper with that stentorian voice just back of my ears solving the war problem, explaining the Balkan situation, telling why the Greeks are licking the Italians and summing up what congress has done and failed to do. If I knew as much as that chap I'd be doing a commentator job on a national network.

The silent companion got off at Baker street. Now, I thought, this eloquent passenger will perform a quiet and I'll snatch a few headlines.

But no! Having nobody to talk to, he whistled. And approached the tune only at intervals. He whistled all the way to Walton street, where we all got off. I had planned going straight across the Forsyth viaduct, but I waited a moment. He went that way—so I detoured around through Broad.

'Cold Baths!—Yes.'

Letter from Charles P. Copeland, M. D. On two subjects suggested by this column.

(1) Cold baths. Dr. Copeland boasts—no, scratch that out, he doesn't boast—that he's taken a cold bath every morning for 40 years and doesn't see anything in it to brag about. He says he owns two overcoats (he must be a specialist) and keeps one at the office and one at home and rarely wears either because he never feels cold.

I had hopes of an overcoat there, but my correspondent says he weighs 235 pounds, which tops me by 90. I don't believe I want one of his overcoats. Besides, spring is here.

(2) Need of a city park where strangers can sit down and rest between trains or when they feel like it.

My contributor says he had hopes the new Hurt Park would provide such a resting spot for tired feet, even though it's off the beaten path. But it doesn't. It's very beautiful but there's no place to sit down.

And Atlanta, though I'll concede it's a hustling city with everybody up on his toes and in a hurry, does need a few sett'n places.

Worn and weary, I was waiting a few days ago for my homebound trolley. I just missed one.

The curb is fairly high at that corner and a couple of Negroes were sitting on it, their feet in the street, country town style. I longed to ask them to move over a bit and make room for me. But what would people say if they saw a fairly well-dressed white citizen with his feet in the gutter? You know damn well what they'd say. Maybe I'll invest in one of those folding camp chairs and lug it around with me—for use in waiting for trolleys or the Mistress of the Manor, who promised to meet me in front of the Paramount at 3:45 p. m.

Sunday Laws.

Queer quirks in Sunday laws have inspired writers in many states. I've taken a few shots at the Georgia situation in the past—and probably will do it again.

Atlanta has some odd Sunday ordinances, too. Perhaps "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

Unless it was repealed when I was looking, it is again in the law in Atlanta to sell camera films on Sunday. Though the drug store which refuses your request may sell you cigarettes, a copy of Saucy Stories or a lawn mower without breaking the law.

Atlanta and most of Georgia are more liberal about Sunday than when I first bestowed the benediction of my presence upon this fair state. Several cities have Sunday movies and Sunday baseball, while Sunday golf is universal and tennis is played wherever there is a court.

What started me on this well-worn topic was a story in the Brunswick News, which naturally is interested in fishing, having its being in a fine fishing region. It comments that the legislature refused to alter Georgia's grand old statute against fishing on Sunday. The law is rarely enforced—but it's there. But let's quote the Brunswick story:

"The law prohibiting fishing on the Sabbath was passed many years ago and frequently there have been attempts to repeal it, but each time the legislators have voted to let it remain, and they did so again yesterday."

"The law is plain: it simply makes it illegal to fish in any way, shape or form on Sunday, but as far as its enforcement is concerned, it is confined to only one or two counties in the entire state."

"It is a common fact that Sunday is known as the biggest fishing day of the week. It is the one day that the rivers and creeks and lakes are filled with men, women and children, especially when fish are biting, and seldom are they molested by the law. In one or two instances in interior counties cases have been made against persons caught fishing in lakes or fresh water streams on Sunday, but as far as is known there has never been such a case along the coastal section, except several years ago when a number of persons were arrested for fishing on Sunday in the Satilla river in Camden county."

"Chances are the law will remain on the statutes and the fishermen will continue to fish on Sunday."

WANTS NO ACTIVE WAR PARTICIPATION

Editor, Constitution: Senator Walter F. George, having successfully led the fight for the lease-lend bill, said of its administration: "I am satisfied that the bill may be administered by the President in such manner as to make secure the peace of the United States, to keep war from our shores, and avoid the possibility of our soldiers participating in war."

This opinion, which evidently expressed also the senator's hope, is directly in line with the Democratic platform and with President Roosevelt's oft-repeated pledge to the American people. Over and over the President has assured us that he proposed "to keep war as far from these shores as possible," and that he would send no American boys to fight on foreign seas or soil. This purpose, indeed was assigned as a chief reason for giving all possible aid to Britain "short of war."

Now that such aid has been authorized, congress and the American people have a right to expect that the President will sacredly respect that solemn pledge, so many times repeated. I suggest that every one who feels that way about it should write him at once and say so.

R. B. ELEAZER.

BLAMES LEADERSHIP OF LABOR, BUSINESS

Editor Constitution: If out of the present crisis we cannot solve some of our problems, then our hopes and ambitions must be for naught. But I feel that out of this crisis there will be a rebirth or better still, a realization of the blessings we enjoy.

One of the weaknesses in our present leadership, especially as it relates to business on the one hand and labor on the other, is exemplified by the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. He feels that to admit that business has made a mistake or that it should change its policy is a sign of weakness rather than of strength. In a like manner, the labor unions today, through their leadership, feel that if they gave in to the new order,

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

I spent last Friday in Louisville, Ky., beginning the day as the breakfast guest of Dr. and Mrs. John R. Sampey. Dr. Sampey is president of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, with which institution he has been associated for a half century. Other guests at the breakfast were Dr. Lowe, of China; Dr. Slockum, of China, and Dr. Oliver, of Brazil.

Knowing the valor of President Sampey's patriotism, as revealed in all his written and spoken pronouncements for the past 50 years, I was glad to have this comment from him on the minister as patriot.

"A patriot is one who loves his country. The true patriot is willing to make all reason the sacrifice for the welfare of his country. Sometimes this may call for surrender of life itself. When Nathan Hale was standing on the gallows with the noose about his neck, condemned as a spy, he was asked if he had anything to say. He made a reply that revealed the depth of his patriotism—I regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

"The Christian minister must never cease to be Christian, nor must he ever cease to be a patriot. The patriotic minister will go with his government as far as his conscience approves and where he believes his government is wrong he will seek to change its policy, while never betraying his country to its foes."

"The Christian minister may properly encourage love of his country in the worship service. The minister should avoid partisanship as between political parties. On all moral issues he should have clear views and in all becoming ways seek to win his country to high moral standards. . . ."

For common sense and Christian conviction, I don't believe you can improve on the above statement. I am so grateful that we have a man like Dr. Sampey as president of this historic institution, with its more than 400 young men in training for the ministry, in an hour like this. He is a great Christian gentleman, and a patriot with the iron of unyielding, unflinching allegiance to the American concept of democracy and liberty. I always feel stronger when I am in his presence. It does me good to hear him quote the words of Patrick Henry—"Give me liberty, or give me death!" and the words of Robert E. Lee, "Duty is the sublimest word. . . ."

Late in the day, last Friday, while addressing a great conference of leaders from every section of our country and some foreign lands, President Sampey said, with great emotion: "Let us rededicate ourselves to that which we know to be right and true, doing with all our might what our hands find to do. We've no time to waste now. Democracy is at stake. Christianity is at stake. We must stand up like men, and, withal, stand!"

A Million Dollars to Relieve Piles

It is estimated that over a million dollars annually is spent for various remedies for relieving piles. Yet any druggist will tell you that soothing, cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment will allay pile torture in a few minutes. 35c a box, 60c in tube with applicator. Peterson's Ointment stops itching promptly, brings joyful relief. Money back if not delighted.

labor unions themselves, through their leadership, that is forcing public opinion and the government to take action.

My advice to both of them is to take time by the forelock and get themselves in step with the times. Better days are ahead, and there is no doubt that the ideals that brought forth the birth of these United States are going through the crucible at this moment and are on the way for a rebirth, with better things ahead for the world at large.

Crackers Play Waycross Today; Milwaukee Game Is Rained Out

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

Most Encouraging ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—Leaving the Ancient City after almost a month of unbroken spring training drills, Manager Paul Richards had few faults to find with the Cracker squad.

"We may need a center fielder," Richards said, "and Burge is going to have to do a lot of hitting to be of value to us at first base."

Center field was a problem when the Crackers went to camp, and it remained one at the finish because an ankle injury has retarded Buddy Bates, veteran middle gardener. There is some question as to Bates' hitting.

Little Pete Thomassie is an impressive fielder and a promising stickman, but he is lacking in experience. It's quite a hop from Waycross to Atlanta, whether you're playing baseball or driving an automobile. Thomassie may need a year in Class B baseball.

Burge is just naturally going to have to hit a ton, so to speak, to be of value to the Crackers, as Manager Richards says. The North Carolinian started out in baseball as an outfielder and was switched to first by the Crackers because he can't play the outfield in the Southern League.

And to be an asset as a first baseman, heavy stickwork will be necessary to overcome a few fielding faults.

In other words, Burge is a little more than rock throwing distance away from being a Grade A Southern League first baseman in the field.

Still, it was encouraging to find Manager Richards leaning somewhat heavily to the optimistic side with regard to the squad as a whole as the camp meeting broke up.

High Arches I never saw a fellow with such disgustingly high arches as accomplished John Gerlach. His arches are so high he naturally walks on his toes.

No chance of flat feet there. I forgot to ask about his teeth. How many are his and how many he bought from the dentist will be learned after the examining board in Atlanta finishes with him.

It's important to the Crackers to have a boy like John Gerlach on shortstop. Hence, his forthcoming engagement with representatives of Mr. Withers will be followed with avid interest by Cracker officials.

Russ Bergmann, the former Duke athlete, is a nice shortstop but lacks Gerlach's experience. Gerlach and Connie Ryan form an unusually adept keystone combination. Ryan is a bit on the youthful side to be compared with any of the past greats at second base, but he certainly has all the earmarks of being a comer.

On His Toes Ryan had a tendency to fall over his feet a year ago. It was natural for him to run on his heels. This simply kept him from covering a lot of ground and caused him to be awkward on certain plays.

It probably was a blessing in disguise that Ryan came down with a throat infection before the Southern League season opened. It gave him a chance to find himself in a lower classification of baseball; namely, with Savannah.

Before he joined Savannah, Ryan had a few running lessons from George Griffin, of Georgia Tech, and he quickly learned to run on his toes.

At Savannah, Ryan became the baseball idol of the town as the leading second-sacker of the Sally League.

Atlanta fans are going to like this flashy Irish lad. He's a brilliant pivot man and a hard hitter.

Fills the Bill Mortimer Snerd Glock has filled the bill at third. Charlie's a dependable performer wherever he is stationed. Glock rounds out a stout infield, and his stickwork in the pinch is noteworthy. He won a lot of games for the Crackers last year.

Willard Marshall is a brilliant left fielder and Emil Mailho is as flashy as ever in right. It's the middle man that's causing concern. And this little matter probably will work itself out before opening day.

The Crackers have excellent catching. Manager Paul Richards, who also has been highly impressive in first base workouts, will be ably supported behind the plate by Herb Crompton and Sal Ferrara.

Cracker pitching is causing no concern at all. It is as promising as it has been in some years. Allyn Stout, Jinx Pointexter, Ed Heusser, Emil Lochbaum, Wayman Kersick, Charlie Burgess, Bob Chipman and Rene Cortes are the leaders of a swell-looking mound corps.

It is difficult not to wax enthusiastic over the current Cracker squad. Sure, there are one or two problems. But most major league clubs have those, too. All in all, the Crackers are well off.

Hughes Spalding, Cracker vice president, made one of his infrequent visits to a spring camp and was delighted with the squad's appearance. He looked forward to a most entertaining summer at Ponce de Leon park.

Probably as encouraging a feature as any on the closing day of camp on Tuesday was seeing the Crackers knock off double plays—even in an intracamp exhibition game. It has been a long time. . . .

3,000 Bowlers Are Expected For Test Here

$10,000 in Prizes To Lure Pin Knockers From Many States.

From April 19 through April 27 Atlanta will be the host to 2,000 pin bowlers from as far north as Connecticut and as far south as Miami. Three thousand pin knockers will compete in the annual National Duckpin tournament for upward of $10,000 in prizes. Women, as well as men, will have their own special class to determine their champions in team matches, singles and doubles.

Hundreds of visitors come along with the competitors. Special trains will be run from Connecticut, Washington and Baltimore. One group has taken over a local hotel and its 300 rooms in toto for their visit here. A good time will be had by all. Sightseeing trips for the visitors will be the order—but underneath it all will be the first and foremost desire to win that championship for their home town.

Up to the present time, in all northern cities where this tremendous three-ring circus has been held before, admission fees have been charged by all alley owners. Here in Atlanta, in an endeavor to allow as many local residents to see this once-in-a-lifetime happening, no admission fee will be charged. You are welcome to come early and stay late. You may sit a while and watch the champion women bowlers and then journey down to another alley and watch the champion men bowlers perform.

All Atlanta bowlers will be on hand watching the "greats," which will include the famous blue ribbons team from Williamstown, Conn. Their roster includes Nick Tronsky, 1934 and 1939 singles champion and current United States all-events champion, who amassed a huge total of 1283 last year in winning that title. Other members of the team are almost as well known. Steve Dyak, Joe Gacek, Mike Bogino and Bill Totto have been champions a long time in their own right.

The women's championship team is anchored by Christine Kirk, from Bridgeport, Conn., and also includes other great bowlers. The one and only Ida Simmons, world's champion for so many years that her name is synonymous with big scores; Lorraine Gull, who has beaten Miss Simmons in many matches and who hails from Washington; Katherine Vick, of Norfolk, who won the United States all-events last year with a tremendous 1,161 for nine games and also who shared the doubles crown with Eva Andrus, of Norfolk; Ruth Hampel, left-handed singles champion of 1940 and many, many others who will make their bid for fame will be on hand.

From 10 o'clock every morning until 12 p. m. every night matches will be in progress that will be well worth watching. Entries received from Atlanta include teams as follows: Bowling Baumgartners, R. C. Cola girls, Randall Brothers, Bick's Bowling Center men and women, Anderson's Flinders Shop, C. S. National Bank women, Dr. Pepper, First National Bank, Defoor, Inc., Brunswick-Balke-Collender men and women, Model Laundry men and women, Groover's Lake, Hop-ton-Thompson Company, Rogers Stores and the entire Junior Chamber of Commerce League, including Home Desk & Fixture Company, Parks Printing Company, Phillips-Brown, Industrial Loan Company, H. W. Lay Company, Dixie Ohio Express, Moore Insurance Company and Flowers Laundry.

Soose Gets Crack At Overlin's Title

New York, March 26.—(UP)—Brilliant Billy Soose, "uncrowned king" of the middleweights, Tuesday finally was granted a title shot at Champion Ken Overlin, after an eight-month pursuit.

Under pressure from the press, Overlin and Manager Chris Dundee agreed to gamble the crown against the Farrell (Pa.) flash at Madison Square Garden May 23.

Today's contract provided punishment with its first Damon and Pythias clause proviso under which Soose, if victorious, guarantees to defend the title within 90 days against Overlin or Overlin's staminatee, George Abrams, of Washington, D. C.

Lou Boudreau

PLAYS HERE SATURDAY—Lou Boudreau is the "Rookie of the Year," as decided by the Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association, and the "Most Valuable Player," in the opinion of the Cleveland Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association. In his first full year in the majors this graduate of the University of Illinois was named on the American League All-Star team. Competent critics have predicted that he will be recognized in time as one of the great shortstops of history. Boudreau will appear here when Cleveland plays the Crackers Saturday and Sunday.

Phones To Keep Augusta Fans Posted on Hole-by-Hole Play

Six Scoreboards on Course Will Be Kept Up-to-date; Will Save Foot Mileage.

BY AL SHARP.

You can't line fairways with grandstands and let the fans relax and watch as they do in baseball, football and tennis.

You can't come close to being definite about the player who will get hot, and send the gallery tagging in his wake.

But you can keep the gallery posted on every player on the course, and that's what the Augusta Masters' tournament chairman, Clifford Roberts, is going to do April 3-6.

And there's no telling how many feet will be saved useless miles of walking. Think of the saving in wear and tear on the arches and pet corns, and don't forget the puffing and blowing of larger patrons climbing one hill only to find the hottest golfer is on the other side of that hill over there.

That won't happen any more at Augusta, not under Mr. Roberts' system. Here's the idea:

An underground telephone system, connecting six stations, placed at vantage points so observers will be able to see the players at a dozen holes, will supply the information. There will be scoreboards at the stations and also three near the clubhouse. In that way news of a player's fine shooting will be relayed immediately to all points, giving fans a chance to pick up the twosome.

In this manner, fans won't miss all the fireworks by being in the wrong place at the right time. A check of the scoreboard at any point will make it possible for everyone to see the best golf.

A map of the course, with scoreboards and the layout, will be distributed to fans. On the back will be printed the starting times.

In describing the new system, Roberts concludes:

"Properly operated, a system of this kind will eliminate all chance of a repetition of Olin Dutra's winning the U. S. Open at Philadelphia in 1934 with a gallery of two and Gene Sarazen clicking in at Santa Anita, will rid the Skokie in 1922 with a gallery consisting mainly of his fellow competitor and the caddies."

Yes sir, it surely will help.

At the same time, all 67 counties will get another $8,000 distribution from new funds on hand.

Veteran Stout May Toe Mound For First Time

Richards Sends Pitcher T. J. Bankston to Savannah Club.

BY JOHNNY BRADBERRY

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 26.—Rained out in their exhibition game with Milwaukee in Ocala, Fla., today the Crackers arrived here tonight for a battle with the Waycross Bears tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting.

If his arms feel all right the veteran Allyn Stout will make his first exhibition start of the season. He will be followed on the mound by Emil Lochbaum and Vince Ventura. All are right-handers.

The game with Milwaukee was called off this morning before the Crackers left their St. Augustine training camp. Officials of the Brewers called Manager Richards and said an all-night rain had made it impossible to play even if today's rain stopped there. The Crackers took a very short workout before leaving for Waycross.

Before leaving the camp, Richards sent T. J. Bankston, husky right-handed pitcher, to Savannah. The big Louisiana boy played with Spartanburg and Charleston in the same league last season and is expected to help Chick Autry's Indians no little.

He is big and fast, but needs more experience before taking his turn in Southern league ball.

The Crackers will arrive in Atlanta Friday and will meet Cleveland Saturday and Sunday at Ponce de Leon park. According to word received here Jim Bagby, the Atlanta boy, will be on the mound for the Indians Saturday, while Rapid Robert Feller is expected to take his regular turn Sunday.

Richards plans to start Ed Nowak in the first game and Rene Cortes in the second.

Jerry Tieman, who tried out with the Crackers several years ago and played last season for Savannah, arrived in St. Augustine last night to take up his new job as manager of the Saints. He was warmly greeted by Lochbaum, Burge and Ryan, old Indian teammates.

In 1915, the St. Louis Cardinals trained in St. Augustine. There was a rookie left-hander on the squad, and there was a little black-haired boy looking after the bats. The left-hander was Dick Niehaus, now Cracker trainer, and the boy was Fred Francis, now owner of the St. Augustine club. The Cardinals lived at the same hotel as the Crackers. Niehaus and Francis met last night and talked over old times when the latter dropped by the hotel to bid goodbye to the Crackers.

Howard Will Send Porter's Cap East

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—(AP) Porter's Cap, Charles S. Howard's Kentucky Derby candidate, will leave early next week for the east.

Accompanying the youngster will be Midland, sensational two-year-old, Hy Camp's Handy Justice and Painted Savage.

Trainer Tom Smith will ship directly to Havre de Grace, Md., and will train Porter's Cap for the Chesapeake stakes next month. Jockey Buddy Haas, who won the Kentucky Derby at Santa Anita, will ride the Howard candidate in the Derby, May 3.

GATORS BEATEN.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Duke University's golf team won an easy 21-to-6 victory over the University of Florida today. It was the first match of the season for the "Gators."

Duke Is Taking Golf Seriously

MIAMI, Fla., March 26.—(AP) The Duke of Windsor is taking his golf game "very seriously" these days and generally gets around the Nassau course in the low eighties, a professional who has given him daily lessons since early December reported today.

Stopping here briefly en route from Nassau to resume his post as teaching professional at the French Lick Springs hotel course in Indiana, Mel Smith explained that Edward now has overcome the difficulties he formerly had with his short game.

"He's a pretty good all-around golfer now," Smith declared. "He's playing a much more orthodox game than he used to, and generally shoots between 80 and 85."

The Duke generally practiced five days a week and took playing lessons the other two days while Smith was in Nassau, the professional declared. Edward, he said, was much pleased with his improved game.

"I think I've got it now," Smith quoted the Duke as saying after one especially creditable round a few days ago.

Smith formerly tutored national Open Champion Lawson Little.

Homers Cheap in This League

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Home runs would be cheap ifjai alai players were allowed to swing a cesta instead of a bat in baseball games.

A contest was held yesterday to determine whether a baseball player can knock a baseball farther than ajai alai performer can throw a pelota.

Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, hit fungo style and smacked a baseball 410 feet on the fly. Other members of the Giants and several Philadelphia Philly players couldn't do as well.

Then contestants at the Biscayne Fronton here had their turn. They used regulation equipment—the basket-like cesta, which is fastened to the forearm and extends about two feet beyond the fingertips, and the pelota, a sphere slightly smaller but heavier than a baseball.

With the aid of the leverage, Izaguirre, a Mexican, sent a pelota 507 feet through space. Throwing a baseball from the cesta, he got 425 feet.

Lee Savold Is Added to Boxing Program at Auditorium April 7

Draft May Take Bettina Off Program; Kearns' Advance Staff in Town To Complete Details.

One of the greatest boxing shows ever to be seen in Atlanta was in the making today with the arrival of advance members of the staff of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, and creator of the million dollar gate in boxing.

Kearns will promote the show for the benefit of the British-American Ambulance Corps, and the Greek War Relief Society. The show, to be staged under the auspices of Atlanta Post No. 112, Jewish War Veterans of the U. S. A., is scheduled for the city auditorium April 7.

Members of Kearns' staff who put in an appearance included Andy Niederreiter, matchmaker; Murray "Tex" Pette, ticket sales supervisor, and Bob Evans, publicity.

Evans said that Melio Bettina, former light-heavyweight champion of the world and challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, and Pat Comiskey, the young Irish giant from New Jersey, would headline the bouts in two 10-round features against outstanding opponents. Bettina and Comiskey added to their laurels in Tampa Tuesday night. Bettina scored a technical knockout over his opponent, Texas Jack Marshall, in the ninth round of a 10-rounder, and Comiskey stopped Mike Alfano, of New York, in three.

Bettina's appearance is contingent upon action by draft board authorities. The former light-heavyweight champion has been ordered to report for examination within 10 days.

It also was announced that Lee Savold, of Des Moines, fifth ranking heavyweight in the nation, had signed a contract to fight exclusively for Kearns, and would appear on the card.

Matchmaker Niederreiter said he was negotiating for the services of Tommy Gomez, Bill Poland, Henry Cooper, and other ranking heavyweights as opponents for the fighters named. Gomez is the latest sensation in the heavyweight ranks. A buck private in the 116th Field Artillery, stationed at Camp Elandring, Florida, he punched his way to the heavyweight title of his native state in little more than a year.

Gomez faced Ernie Pettratti, of New York, on Kearns' Tuesday night Tampa card and knocked out the veteran in two rounds. Poland is a young Jewish heavyweight with a following in New York and the middle west, and Cooper is a rugged youngster who long has been sought as an opponent for Gomez. Niederreiter said he would announce one, and possibly two, of the matches within the next two days.

Kearns referees a British-American Ambulance Corps fight show in Orlando Friday night. He will arrive in Atlanta Saturday.

Dorothy Plays Medalist Hicks In Semi-Finals

Mrs. Page Routs Lithia Springs Girl in North-South Meet.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.
PINEHURST COUNTRY CLUB, March 26.—The original field of 16 has narrowed down to the four semifinalists. Some good golf has been played and the four who have survived will run into hard matches tomorrow.

Today in the first match Elizabeth Hicks won from Dorothy Gardner by 3 and 2. Dot lost her putting touch on the front nine and was five down at the turn. While Dot was having her trouble Elizabeth got around in 38 strokes and was playing nice golf. The back side was a different story, for Dot began sinking her putts and came from the handicap of being well down to hang on to the 16th hole where her putt rimmed the cup for a win. However "Little Bit," as we call Hicks, was knocking the ball with accuracy on most of the holes. That seems to be the story of that match.

KIRBY HAS 36 OUT.
My match with Jean Cline ended with me winning by 4 and 3. Jean couldn't get her putts to drop on the front side, but even with these missed putts she had a 39, and I was three up shooting a 36. As seems to be my usual custom I messed up several of the holes on the back side. I just can't play the 11th and 12th holes no matter how hard I try.

So Jean won the 11th and we halved the 12th and 13th and 14th. I won the 15th with a par four and that was it. Jean is another one of the younger ones, being 17—and how she hits those shots.

I think she must have worked a little too hard yesterday in beating Jean Bauer on the 21st. Her game wasn't as good today as it was in that Bauer match. It's hard to play those extra-hole affairs and then come right back the next day with good golf.

SUGGS HAS TROUBLE.
Louise Suggs ran into trouble in the form of Mrs. Page, the defending champ. She beat Louise by 7 and 6. The main cause of this big defeat was probably the fact that Louise had eight three-putt greens out of 12 holes. You can't win matches this way. Mrs. Page, however, was playing the type of golf that is hard to handle anyway. She had a 35 on the first nine holes. It evidently wasn't Louise's day to win.

Mrs. Hockenjos won her match from Mrs. Morgan and meets Mrs. Page in tomorrow's match. The crowning blow is that Elizabeth Hicks and I are meeting again for the third time in as many weeks. Elizabeth captured the first match by a large margin and I won from her last week in Augusta.

So we will try it again up here.

We are both hitting the ball fairly well, and I hope we have a good match.

'Jockey' Dykes Ribs Novikoff - Teams Feud

Cubs, Chisox Really Battle Now; It's Personal Issue.

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—(AP) Jimmy Dykes is just an "old meanie" for heckling Lou Novikoff, a fence-busting genius while in the minors, and the Chicago Cubs don't care who knows it.

The caustic Irish pilot of the White Sox has been giving the young and not-so-mad Russian "the business" every time the two cross-town rivals get together for an exhibition game.

"Jockey" Dykes put a saddle on the singing, harmonica-playing Cub rookie in the first game and has been riding him ever since. Netted or not by Dykes' jibes, Novikoff nevertheless has collected a meager three hits in 16 official times at bat in four games, which is poor work, especially for Novikoff, an view of his impressive Coast League record.

Jimmy Wilson, Cub pilot, isn't too elated over this needling, taking time out to give Dykes a verbal spanking thusly:

"He's all wrong about that. He shouldn't be riding these young fellows. Let him pick on me, if he wants to, or Stan Hack or Bill Herman, or some of the fellows who have been through it. You shouldn't ride a youngster when he's trying to break in."

Clyde King Runs String Up to 175

Clyde King Jr. hit another 100 straight skeet targets to extend his unbroken run to 175 yesterday at the Capitol Gun Club.

Jim Wilson, a good field shot, but new at skeet, was the only other shooter to run off 25 straight as skeet and trap shooters unlimbered their guns, and beginners took lessons from Fred Etchen.

Mrs. William Healey, who hasn't shot skeet or trap in some time, broke 21 out of 25 from the 16-yard line under the expert guidance of Etchen.

Veteran shooters who turned in creditable scores included Jack Tway and Bill McBride, who hit 46x50.

Others shooting yesterday included Dr. Stacy Howell, H. J. Lewis, Dixie Hill, Dr. Dan Elkin, John W. Grant and Mrs. Grant, Lee Parsons, "Hop" Owens, Mrs. Oliver Healey and Mrs. Bob Autrey.

Shooting will be resumed at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Greg Rice, Runner Is Unfit for Army

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 26.—(AP)—Greg Rice, who hasn't lost a race at two or three miles in two years, is physically unfit for Army service, selective service officials disclosed today. Rice, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, holds the two and three-mile run records and was the winner of the 1940 Sullivan award. Draft officials said a triple hernia makes the stocky distance star unfit for military service.

Doerr Raps 3 Homers; Giants Outslug Reds, 9-8

Gerald Walker Scores From Second on Fly Ball To Give Indians 3-2 Win Over Tigers.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26.—(UP)—Bobby Doerr, Red Sox' slugging second baseman, hit three home runs today, leading Boston to a 11-to-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Doerr's homers were partially equalled by Joe Marty, Johnny Rizzo and Tom Livingston, of the Phils, who all hit for the circuit. Jimmy Fox hit his first homer for the Red Sox this year in the opening inning with one on.

GIANTS OUTSLUG REDS.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—With homers dropping over the short fences at the rate of one an inning, the New York Giants outblasted the Cincinnati Reds today for a 9-to-8 victory.

Both teams did all their scoring in the early innings and the Giants did it a little better and made Jim Turner their victor. His successors, Rucky Walters and Bob Logan, stopped all the heavy hitting, but it was up to the heavy hitters to do the rest of the work. A hit by Jimmy Gleason or Frank McCormick in the eighth, when the Reds loaded the bases with one out, would have turned the tide, but Rookie Bob Carpenter fanned Gleason and made McCormick send up an infield pop.

WALKER BURNS BASE PATHS.
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—A daring dash from second base by Gerald Walker gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-to-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers today.

Walker was on second in the eighth inning as Ray Mack drove a long fly to center fielder Barney McCoskey. He was on his way as soon as McCoskey took the ball and slid into home plate with the winning run.

The Indians were particularly gratified at their victory because it came at the expense of Floyd Giebel, the rookie who last September 27 defeated Bob Feller in the game which knocked the Indians out of the pennant race.

Feller had the advantage today, as he allowed only two hits in three innings while the Indians knicked Giebel for five in four innings.

The Indians cut their pitching staff to 16 today by the outright sale of two rookies, Don Padgett and Earl Carter, to the Wilkes-Barre club.

CARD ROOKIE BATS IN 4.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Walker Cooper, the rookie who hit the St. Louis Cardinals off today to handle their catching chores, gave the Brooklyn Dodgers something to remember today.

He batted in four runs with a triple, double and single to give the Redbirds a 5-to-3 exhibition victory over the Dodgers.

Herman Franks and Dixie Walker hit home runs for Brooklyn.

VAUGHAN'S HOMER BEATS CHISOX.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 26.—(UP)—Arky Vaughan's homer—his second in two days—today gave the Cardinals a 2-to-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Lee Handley also hit for the circuit for the Pirates and Joe Kuhel and Dario Lodiani each homered to keep the White Sox in the game.

BROWNS WIN ON HOMERS.
BROWNSVILLE, Texas, March 26.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns used three home runs to stave off a comeback today to defeat the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League, 10 to 5.

The homers were by George McQuinn, Harold Clift and Chet Laabs.

LOOKOUTS RAINED OUT.
DELAND, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—The Chattanooga Lookouts had today their second day of idleness within a week when rain forced postponement of their game with Deland, of the Florida State League.

Exhibitions are carded Friday with Milwaukee at Ocala and Saturday with St. Paul, here.

BARONS DROP 3D STRAIGHT.
BRADENTON, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Birmingham's Barons dropped their third straight exhibition game here today, bowing 3-5 to the Louisville Colonels.

The Colonels, who reached Barons' hurlers Dee Moore and Red Barrett for 12 hits, scored off Moore in a wild third inning and coasted home. Three Birmingham runs crossed in a belated ninth-inning uprising. Doubles by Art Luce and Wayne Ambler topped a Birmingham 000 001 013-5 7 2.

Louisville 008 001 00x-9 12 1. J. Moore, Barrett and DePhillips, Bullard, Powell, Shaffer and Walters.

POFFENBERGER TO FACE REDS.
BATON ROUGE, La., March 26.—(AP)—Manager Larry Gilbert expressed delight today over the way his team Volts hammered the ball in a hitting drill under a bright sun, the first sunshine in many days.

Gilbert said Boots Poffenberger, leading pitcher last season, would get his first work tomorrow in a game with New Orleans in the Pel Park. Russ Morris and Julian Tubb also are slated for mound duty.

PELS GET CARD HURLER.
NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—The New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association have acquired Henry Nowak, 7.

Bulldogs Blow Lead and Lose In Tenth, 6 to 4

Anderson, Kluk Homer As Spartans Beat Bob Smith Again.

ATHENS, Ga., March 26.—An apparently safe three-run lead going into the last inning exploded in Georgia's face here this afternoon as Michigan State's Spartans rapped out a 6-to-4, 10-inning victory over the Bulldogs in the first of a two-game series.

Until the ninth it was one of the fastest and best-played games seen here in many years. But the high rolling Bulldogs folded completely in the latter frames and watched Bob Smith Jr. take his second licking from the Spartans in as many years. Frank Mekules, big righthander who went the route for the visitors, was touched for nine hits including homers by Charley Anderson and Paul Kluk.

UPRISING IN NINTH.
Smith apparently had things under control going into the last frame. The visitors had hit him rather sharply in the first five innings, but after the fifth they hadn't made a safety.

Georgia scored first, in the third inning, when Kirkland singled Chatham home from second after the latter had walked and went to second on a wild pitch.

Michigan got it right back in the fifth on Wolkowicz's single and Duncan's double.

ANDERSON HOMERS.
Then Anderson, a sophomore, put Georgia out in front again with a 350-foot home run in the seventh. Apparently the Georgia boys had things cinched when Paul Kluk hit one a country mile in the eighth, scoring Moore ahead of him, for Georgia's second home run of the game.

Anderson forced W. Davis against the left field fence and made him jump two feet off the ground to pull down another one of his long blows right after Kluk's four-bagger, but the hit lacked inches of being high enough for another homer.

Coach Sikes said he would probably start Cliff Kimsey against the Spartans in Thursday's game which begins at 3:30 o'clock eastern time.

Zoo Who's Who:

It is almost springtime in the zoo, Atlanta's home for its wild animals is in Grant Park and to it go thousands each year to see its inhabitants. These daily stories about "Who's Who in the Zoo" are to help you get better acquainted with Atlanta's charges from the jungle. Today is introduced:

The two birds pictured above, their apparent self-esteem and possibly among the zoo's most beautiful feathered inhabitants, their cry "cockatoo" make them very amusing. The Lessor Sulphur Crested Cockatoo (Cacatua sulphurea) is a member of a group totaling several different kinds.

Parrots, including macaws, cockatoos, lorries, parakeets and many others form one of the most strongly marked groups of birds, as easily recognized by their peculiarities.

This mobility is secured by the articulation instead of suture of the maxillae, premaxillae, and nasals with the frontal, palatals, and jugals. The lower jaw is like a thumb as opposed to the finger-like upper jaw and the jaws as a prehensile organ may be likened to the claw of a lobster.

Nazis Bomb, Gun Brazilian Steamer

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 26.—(UP)—The 5,000-ton Brazilian steamer Taubate was bombed and machinegunned in the Mediterranean on March 22 by an airplane which ship's officers said bore the insignia of the German air force, the press and propaganda department announced today.

One officer was killed, two crew members were wounded seriously, and six others slightly wounded, and the ship was damaged, the report said. The bombing was believed to have been the first aerial attack of the war upon a vessel carrying the flag of an American republic.

It was announced that the foreign ministry "has taken steps appropriate to the case."

Sarajevo Name Of Ominous Associations

World War Had Beginning in Quaint Balkan Town.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Anti-German rioting in Sarajevo brings back to the news a name of ominous associations, for it was in that quaint, half-Oriental town of ancient Bosnia that the World War has its beginnings.

There on June 28, 1914, the 19-year-old student, Gavrilo Princip, shot to death the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, and his wife, the Countess of Hohenberg. Austria-Hungary blamed Serbia, center of a Pan-Slavic movement that embraced Bosnia. The World War began a month later, involving more than 30 countries directly, costing 8,500,000 lives, and sowing the seeds of the present conflict.

Princip, who died in prison near Prague in 1918, was buried at Sarajevo in 1929. Flowers often are placed anonymously on his simple grave, since to some he was not an assassin but a Slavic patriot.

Out of the World War rose the new nation of Yugoslavia, including Sarajevo within its borders. The change in ownership was but one of the many the town has experienced in a history almost as old as the turbulent Balkans.

Founded in 1262 A. D., by Hungarian General Coloman, it has been burned five times. Hungarian, Austrian, Turk and Slav have ruled it.

The name itself denotes its history, having been taken from the Turkish serai or palace erected there in the 15th century.

Now of 80,000 population, Sarajevo always has been primarily Serbo-Croatian. It has maintained its own fierce pride and prejudices.

Demonstrators Battle Police in Yugoslav Cities

citizens suspected of sympathy for Britain and the United States, and there were unnumbered secret arrests during the day as a preventive measure which failed to prevent the outbreaks of the night.

Vice Premier Vladimir Macek hurried to Zagreb to try to placate leaders of the Independent Democratic party, who are said to have ordered all their members to resign from local governments of Croatia in protest against Tuesday's capitulation to the Axis.

Frankovci, the Nazi Croatian organization, celebrated the pact in Zagreb by shouting, "Our time has come at last."

The Jewish population of that city in the northern portion of the country was reported panicky, fearing persecutions soon would come.

It was reported reliably that the patriarch and holy synod of the Orthodox church would meet Thursday to adopt a resolution condemning Yugoslavia's adherence to the tripartite program.

Detectives Swarmed.
Belgrade was filled with detectives. Hundreds of men especially trained for trouble of this sort scattered around government buildings and schools and sauntered along the streets.

The Associated Press correspondent, touring the city by automobile, was followed everywhere. When the scene of a riot was reached, a detective promptly appeared, questioned the chauffeur and noted our identities and credentials in a notebook.

At one school where "down with tripartite pact" was scrawled in gigantic letters on a wall pedestrians gathered to spell out the inscription with moving lips, and nodded their heads sagely.

"Down with Hitler" signs appeared in numerous places despite orders to all officers to destroy them wherever found.

One woman news vendor (who apparently could not read) complained, "For two days now many of my customers buy papers and throw them on the ground and stamp on them. I don't understand why."

Day of Mourning.
In Ljubljana, Slovenes declared a day of mourning, blaming the Croats for having joined the Germans. Students there marched in a protest parade.

Inflammatory pamphlets appeared in Nis, birthplace of Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic, who signed the pact Tuesday.

China Fighting For Mankind, Willkie Says

NEW YORK, March 26.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie said tonight that China's struggle against Japan would go down in history "as one of the decisive battles in mankind's long fight for freedom and for a better life."

He said the German drive southward originally was set for April 1, but might be hastened by several days.

The Yugoslav temper was heightened by a radio broadcast in German that Nazi troops would enter the country to "protect Yugoslav independence" under the Vienna treaty terms if the demonstrations continued. The station was believed to be a "boot-leg" transmitter.

British Broadcasting Corporation, quoting the German radio, said that German troops would march in "if movements of revolt become a nuisance to Germany." The BBC announcement was heard in New York by both NBC and CBS.

BRITISH URGE YUGOSLAV RESISTANCE

LONDON, March 26.—(P)—L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, urged Serbs, Croats and Slovenes by radio tonight to resist German domination of Yugoslavia and to "keep the flame of national spirit alive."

Amery, perhaps the government's best linguist, spoke in Serbo-Croatian.

"In this war are you going to be content to leave glory to the Greeks alone and be classed with the Rumanians and Bulgars as second class men who follow the Germans because they dare not face them in the field?" he asked.

Big Food Deal By Two French Zones Reported

Question of Sending U. S. Supplies to Vichy Reopened.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—The entire question of sending American food supplies to unoccupied France was reopened today after a large barter deal between the occupied and unoccupied zones was reported from Vichy.

The reported agreement was announced in the Paris newspaper Aurore "hul and was said here to be a complete surprise to the United States government. It called for a sweeping trade of livestock, vegetables, and other supplies from the unoccupied zone for grain, sugar and potatoes from the German-occupied area.

The State Department called immediately for a full report from Ambassador William D. Leahy in Vichy. Until this was received and studied, officials declined to say what effect it might have on the pending Red Cross "experimental" shipments of American foodstuffs and plans for aiding unoccupied France in the future. (Preparations have already been made to send two Red Cross cargoes of flour to "Free France.")

An authoritative source said that the new development reopened the whole subject of food for France and indicated that it might affect the Red Cross cargoes.

Local Boards To Furnish 171 In Seventh Call

1,110 Men in Georgia To Be Inducted in 10-Day Period.

Draft boards in Fulton and DeKalb will furnish 171 of the state's quota of 1,110 men to be inducted into the Army in the seventh call.

The total includes 60 white men and 88 Negroes from Fulton, and 18 white men and 5 Negroes from DeKalb. The white men will be inducted at Fort McPherson and the Negroes at Fort Benning during the 10-day period beginning April 11.

The seventh call was for 500 white men and 610 Negroes from Georgia. Previously the Army had been unable to receive a proportionate number of Negroes because of the limited number of Negro training camps.

Quotas being sent to Fulton and DeKalb boards follow:

Parachuting Pilot Dies From Injury

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 26.—(P)—His legs cut off by the propeller of his spinning airplane as he floated earthward under a parachute, Second Lieutenant Charles D. Bird, 25, of Bellefontaine, O., died two hours later today at the Maxwell Field hospital here.

Second Lieutenant Vincent A. Black, of Altoona, Pa., who also leaped from the floundering Army training plane, escaped injury.

Both fliers were attached to the air corps basic training school at Gunter field and were executing spins 6,000 feet above Waugh, Ala., 16 miles from here, when their craft went out of control. The plane pancaked in a field, wrecking itself.

Bird came here recently from Randolph Field, Texas, where he

John Doe Is Dead, Marshal Reports

City Attorney Jack Savage was puzzled yesterday and was diligently but futilely attempting to comply with a request which came to him from the office of Jim George, marshal of the civil court of Fulton county.

Several weeks ago, the city entered suit against "John Doe," Atlanta, and gave a specific address where he could be served with the court papers.

Yesterday, the following notation reached Savage's office from the marshal:

"Cannot serve papers on account 'John Doe' deceased. Please give better address."

Fourth Corps Has Most Men, General Says

Virgil L. Peterson, Inspector General of Army, Lauds Dixie Defense.

"The Fourth Corps Area is handling a tremendous job, and a difficult job, in a most efficient way," Major General Virgil L. Peterson, of Washington, inspector general of the United States army, said here yesterday.

General Peterson, in Atlanta on an inspection trip of corps area headquarters throughout the country, said:

"There are more troops in this corps area than any other in the country, and the job of taking care of all the details relating to it is truly tremendous. I found things here in very good shape. It would be unfair to be too critical when the magnitude of the task is taken into consideration."

National Picture. As for the national picture, General Peterson said:

"The picture as a whole is a comforting one. There has been a lot of bad weather—oceans of mud in some places, and yet the officers and men have gone about their work cheerfully. There is little griping. "The morale of the soldiers and the attitude of the officers is very good, even when they have struggled under tough weather conditions. It's a fine sight to see the boys marching along with heads high and shoulders straight—and smiling, even at the end of a hike."

General Peterson conferred while here with Brigadier General John P. Smith, Fourth Corps Area commander, who is an old personal friend, and Colonel C. H. Patterson, corps area inspector general. He also inspected the Lawson General hospital at Camp Gordon.

Native of Kentucky.

The general came here from a visit to Fort Benning, and plans to leave by train today for Washington. He is a native of Kentucky and holder of the distinguished service medal for work in training officers during World War I at Fort Belvoir, Va. He formerly served in the corps of engineers.

He praised the south by saying: "The south is doing a wonderful job. Its loyalty to the country and its attitude toward national defense are really outstanding."

James Stewart Sent To Air Corps Center

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 26.—(P)—Private James Stewart was ordered transferred from Fort MacArthur to the Air Corps replacement center at Moffett field today.

The recent winner of the Motion Picture Academy award as the best film actor of 1940 was drafted into the Army last week. Colonel Alexander C. Sullivan, Field Artillery, commanding the reception center at Fort MacArthur, said Stewart's assignment resulted from the report of his classification to the War Department, without his name being mentioned. He was classified as a commercial airplane pilot. He has 325 solo hours.

THE GENERAL EMPHASIZES—Major General Virgil L. Peterson, inspector general of the United States Army, dropped in on Fourth Corps Area headquarters here yesterday, looked things over and pronounced the situation OK. He praised the south for its loyalty and attitude toward national defense.

Navy Officers Face Trial in Plane Death

Pensacola Executive Asks Prompt Conclusion of 'Horrible Case.'

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 26.—(P)—Two young officers remained in their quarters under arrest at the Naval Air Station here today while a military board of inquiry investigated and then reported to Washington their story of having flown their plane so low over an Alabama turnpike field that one wing struck and killed a woman worker.

Commander W. D. Sample said if Ensigns Joseph C. Thompson, 23, and Paul C. Brown, 22, are tried at a general court martial they could be charged with any offense which could be brought against them in a state court. He said they returned to the air station immediately after the accident and reported the matter to their officers.

Mrs. Robert Phillips, 35-year-old mother of four children, was decapitated by the plane's wing. Five other workers in the field near Robertsville, Ala., fell to the ground and escaped injury. Sheriff W. R. Stuart said at Robertsville that the naval airmen apparently had tried to frighten the workers.

Sample, executive officer at the big air station here, said "This is a horrible case and we want to bring the facts to light as soon as possible." He added that at least "half a dozen" Navy regulations prohibit flying such as reported at the scene of the accident.

Ensign Thompson, a former Stanford University student from Heraldsburg, Cal., was in charge of the plane as pilot but Commander Sample said Ensign Brown, a former Loyola Law School student from Chicago, was at the controls when the plane hit Mrs. Phillips. Both young officers had completed their flying courses here and were taking advanced training to become instructors.

Electrician Recovering From 'Shock' of His Life

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 26.—(P)—H. L. Boyd, 45, was recovering today from the shock of his life—4,000 volts to be exact. Boyd, an electrician, was working atop a high pole at Camp Stewart yesterday when his body came in contact with the current. W. C. Monk, foreman, said Boyd was knocked unconscious, but was saved from possible electrocution when a companion, F. A. McCarty, knocked a charged brace away from Boyd.

Boyd was lowered to the ground by ropes and rushed to a first-aid station. He was reported "all right," but suffering from "minor" shock.

Who wouldn't pay 9¢ a month more to get a superior Moncrief installation?

When you stop and figure price, you find there's only 9¢ a month difference in your loan between a Moncrief and the lowest cost furnace on the market. BUT when you consider the heating comfort you buy over a 20 or 25-year period, you see what a WHOLE of a difference such a small amount buys in heating satisfaction.

In planning your home specify a Moncrief Furnace and get the benefits of proper installation, superior construction and local factory service. These important features, which cost you only a few cents more, frequently show a fuel saving of $12 to $15 per year, even in a small home. ## Halifax Urges Cooperation After the War

Sees U. S.-British Alliance as 'Magnet' to Other Nations.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(P)—Close post-war co-operation between the United States and Great Britain which would form a "magnet" to which other nations with similar views would be drawn was pictured today by Lord Halifax, the British ambassador.

"Nations with like ideas and ideals of liberty and freedom would see in the British commonwealth and the United States something to hold on to," Lord Halifax said at a press conference in which he amplified statements made in a speech last night on the establishment of economic co-operation among all nations in the world—that-is-to-be after the war.

"We would not exclude Germany for a minute," he told a score of more American and British newsmen, "if she is willing to co-operate with sincerity, with good will and with intention to become a good citizen of the world."

As to the form this co-operation might take, Lord Halifax said that would have to wait for discussions by the states after the war. He added that it would be necessary to look to some international organ, but I don't think we will see the League of Nations reconstructed in the form we have known it."

How LONG is a Gallon of Gasoline?

WELL, it's longer going downhill than up, longer going slow than fast, longer on smooth, open, level roads than on hills, tough going and soft roads.

But the important new discovery of the year (or since Buick's Compound Carburetion* appeared) is that it's longer when you have two carburetors teamed like Buick's than when you have one!

Here's why:

In smooth, slow, easy going like most of your travel, just one of Buick's smaller-than-usual carburetors thriflily handles all engine requirements.

Only when you go up against a tough pull, want power or otherwise have reason for stepping hard on the gas treadle, does the second carburetor come in.

Then, momentarily, it adds extra fuel and extra power only while it's needed.

Result is that carburetion is always fitted to your driving need.

You're never driving with a carburetor that's bigger than you need for low-range travel, as is usually the case, or one that's too small for top-range performance.

*Optional equipment on the Buick SPECIAL, standard on all other models.

Now the net result is something very pleasant: the same-size engines give up as much as 10% to 15% more miles-per-gallon than last year.

And that's a handsome saving—mighty handsome in a car big and roomy and smart as a Buick.

Look over the next Buick that passes you—or better yet, go trial-drive one—and see if you don't agree.

Children Learn Citizenship in Kindergarten

Modern Methods Here Teach Team-Work Through Play.

Modern education uses the patterns of play to train youngsters for good citizenship. Out at John B. Gordon school, for instance, the kindergarten playground is a litter of boxes and kegs and boards and things.

At first the youngsters play with these things individually. They climb up on boxes and jump off. They pour sand from one barrel into another. And they squabble when another child interferes with what they are doing. Then somebody comes along with an idea for making something. Maybe a train. Or an automobile, or an airplane. And with only a little help from teachers individual play turns into group play, a harmonious doing-something-together that is in reality the first step toward good citizenship.

The ones with the most imagination contribute the ideas. And all contribute a share, as in the building of the train and plane shown herewith.

French Scientist Claims New Auto Fuel Discovery

VICHY, France, March 26.—(AP) Georges Claude, French scientist, has announced to the Academy of Science in Paris that he has made a new automobile fuel composed of 60 per cent ammonia and 40 per cent acetylene.

The new mixture starts motors without preliminary preparation, he said, and tankful will run a car 500 kilometers (about 300 miles).

Owen Sietz, band director at O'Keefe Junior High school, who has been named chairman of the bands for The Constitution-sponsored festival at Grant field, will preside at the meeting. ## London Is Toured By 'Nazi Officer'

LONDON, March 26.—(AP)—Unchallenged, a man wearing a German Army officer's uniform and trappings strolled London streets for hours yesterday, looked over busy Scotland and peered through Buckingham palace's fences. His was merely another uniform to Londoners accustomed to the varied garb of British, Dominion, Colonial, Dutch, Czech, Norwegian, Free French and other Allied forces.

The "German officer" was Donald Collins, film actor employed by the Daily Sketch to point up its editorial campaign urging closer surveillance of aliens.

10,000 Bales of Cotton To Be Made Into Paper

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP) The Agriculture Department announced today it would subsidize the use of 10,000 bales of low-grade cotton in the manufacture of high-quality writing paper. Manufacturers desiring to participate in the program would receive 4 1-2 cents a pound from farm surplus disposal funds on 75 per cent of the cotton used in making paper.

Oil Thrown Into Stove Brings Family Tragedy

JONESBORO, Ark., March 26.—(AP)—Amos Hendley, 26, and his 21-year-old wife, of nearby Riverdale, sat in front of a heating stove yesterday with their son, Grady Leon, four, and thought about an imminent addition to the family.

The day was cold and the young husband, to build up the fire, threw a bucket of tractor fuel into the stove. Flames shot out from the small heater and engulfed the little family, set fire to their one-room dwelling and destroyed it. At a Jonesboro hospital last night, Mrs. Hendley, gravely burned, gave birth to a son, who lived only one minute. The young father died shortly afterward. Grady Leon was recovering today, but his mother's condition was described as critical.

Weather Retards Spring Farm Work in the South

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP) The Weather Bureau said today that spring farm work, including preparation of soil for the cotton crop, was 10 days to two weeks late throughout the south.

Frequent heavy rains during recent weeks were said to have kept fields too wet to work. Truck crops, the bureau said, were making slow progress because of a lack of sunshine.

Conditions were described as being much more favorable for outdoor work in the midwestern farm belt. The bureau said the winter wheat crop made good progress last week.

Atlanta Belle's Photograph To Appear in W. & L. Annual

THE FAR-FLUNG REPUTATION of Atlanta's feminine pulchritude still remains unchallenged! The latest to uphold the standard is Angelique de Golan, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Golan, whose lovely likeness will appear in the Calyx, senior yearbook of Washington and Lee University, in Virginia. And for no reason at all except that she is beautiful!

Each year, it seems, Washington and Lee students submit photographs of beautiful girls as candidates for the coveted honor of being included in the Calyx. This year 60 pictures were submitted, and Angelique's was one of eight that were chosen. The judge of all this beauty was none other than Alex Raymond, internationally known artist, and creator of that inimitable comic strip character, Flash Gordon. As you doubtless know, Mr. Raymond is best known for his creation of beautiful women—which makes his judgment practically unquestioned on the subject of feminine beauty.

Angelique's photograph was submitted by Alex Hitz Jr., who is a junior at Washington and Lee this year. Angelique, you recall, is a student at Georgetown Visitation Convent, in Washington, and is often among the visiting belles attending the W. & L. dances. Alex is expected to arrive Sunday to spend the spring holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hitz, on Brookwood drive. Angelique's holiday comes just at Easter, but she will spend the week with friends in Washington, thus denying her Atlanta admirers the opportunity to congratulate her on her latest honor.

PATRICIA CRICHTON and her fiancé, Robert Beall, whose engagement was announced Sunday, have selected May 1 as the date for their marriage, due to sentimental reasons. It was on that date six years ago that the bride-elect's only sister, the former Mary Crichton, became the bride of John T. Roberts, of Rome. She will act as Patricia's matron of honor and only attendant.

The something borrowed, as well as the something blue, the pretty bride-to-be will wear at her nuptials is the exquisite pale blue wedding gown and veil that will be loaned her by Mrs. George M. Roberts, the former Florence West. Fashioned of heavy taffeta, the gown is brocaded in shamrocks, an appropriate design for Patricia, since her mother, Mrs. Robert Crichton, was born in Dublin, Ireland.

Patricia's father was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and from his native country will be sent sprigs of lovely white heather which will be used in his daughter's bridal bouquet, the flowers to be tied with satin ribbon that was used on Florence Roberts' wedding bouquet.

Further sentiment will be expressed in the medley of Scotch and Irish love songs that will feature the musical program to be presented by Emilee Parmelee at the young couple's wedding, which will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

The Rev. John W. Melton, of Rome, will officiate at the ceremony and he will be assisted by the Rev. Vernon S. Broyles Jr. The groom-elect has selected Leroy O. Stevens as his best man, and the ushers will include Rufus A. DuVall, of Birmingham, Ala.; George M. Roberts, Foster Bruce and Fred Guffin.

A series of interesting social affairs is being planned for the popular bride-elect, among the first to be the tea at which Mrs. John T. Roberts Sr. and Florence Roberts will entertain on April 5 at Davidson's tearoom from 4 to 6 o'clock. Patricia's mother has planned a trousseau tea for April 27, this affair to be held from 3 to 6 o'clock at their home on North avenue.

Following the rehearsal for the wedding on the evening of April 30, Mrs. Anita Robbins Beall will entertain at a buffet supper for her son and his fiancée.

Members of the two families and a few close friends gathered Sunday at the Crichton home to felicitate the young couple. The affair was in the nature of an open house and also honored John and Mary Crichton Roberts, who motored from Rome especially to be here on the day their sister's engagement was announced.

DO YOU KNOW: That North Fulton High school made $500 on its senior class play, "June Mad," presented last week? ... That a pretty young matron treated her brand-new cocker spaniel by applying "Vick's" to his nose when he caught cold? ... That a handsome groom-to-be displayed unusual originality when he sent his future bride her engagement ring in a box of gardenias? ... That Frances Sprattlin will go to Winston-Salem, N. C., at an early date to attend the marriage of her close friend and former classmate, Lyell Glenn, to Spencer B. Hanes? ... That Luke Greene, whose marriage to Lillian Brown was solemnized Tuesday evening, received a telegram cancelling his "wedding trip" to Nassau just as he and his bride were rushing for the plane—and that he learned just in time that it was the practical joke of Lee and Margaret Rogers and Charlie Gilmore?

New officers of the West End Woman's Club who were elected at the meeting yesterday include, front row, left to right, Mrs. J. H. Legien, re-elected president; Mrs. W. G. Morgan, second vice president; Mrs. E. S. Reeves, recording secretary; back row, left to right, Mrs. W. H. Thomas, publicity chairman; Mrs. J. C. Burch, auditor; Mrs. Leslie Gibson, assistant secretary; Mrs. J. A. Temple, treasurer; Mrs. Conrad Smith, parliamentarian; Mrs. S. J. Alexander, assistant treasurer.

Jean Arthur, Hedy Lamarr Are Two Most Difficult Actresses to Photograph

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Jean Arthur, Ronald Colman and Hedy Lamarr are the three most difficult film stars to photograph, according to a local photographer whose name must be withheld. He had this experience with Miss Arthur: He was allowed on her set to take some "stills" of her. But she refused to pose. He saw her a few nights later at Ciro's and, without her permission, snapped some pictures of her. Jean grabbed his camera and was running with it to the door, but the doorman stopped her and took back the camera.

After this episode Hollywood photographers decided not to bother Jean any more. As for Hedy, she is difficult only because she insists on seeing and okaying all picture proofs, which sometimes makes life hard for a lad with a deadline to meet. Ronnie's unpopularity with the cameramen friend is an "I-really-don't-feel-like-having-my-picture-taken-to-day" attitude.

Walking Is An Excellent Spring Tonic

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you want a tonic that will get you out of that end-of-winter slump, you can't do better than to walk regularly. You will find that it takes the sag out of your spirits and your figure.

Walking is more than an exposure to fresh air—you could get that simply by flinging open the windows, or riding along in the car with the windows down. But if you are to use more oxygen, you have to put your muscles to work so that they need more.

A long walk is much better for you than several short jaunts. You have to allow enough time to stimulate the circulation and send the blood into the muscles. An hour or so of walking is the means of relieving nerve tension incurred in sedentary work. In sedentary occupations, the blood is kept in the brain centers for hours at a stretch and prolonged, mild exercise drains the brain centers, sends the blood into muscles and skin, and releases tension.

For the business woman who has been sitting at a desk all day, or the housewife who has been staying too closely at home, a good long walk is an excellent change of activity. There is no great physical effort connected with walking—it deserves its name, "constitutional."

To turn this activity into a figure program, you have to watch your step. But you should do that anyway. When your figure is out of alignment, it not only detracts from your appearance but also causes you to tire easily, for you are exercising with your muscles in the wrong positions. The posture rule of standing—or sitting—as tall as you possibly can should be enough. When you stretch yourself out to your full length there is no slack for such posture mistakes as leading with the chin or letting the figure sag in the middle.

Charles Chaplin with Carole Landis and Paulette Goddard with Gene Markey were the surprise twosomes of the week. And despite this new and unexpected coupling, I understand that Mr. Chaplin affirms all is well with himself and Paulette. I sometimes think stars like to bewilder working columnists. . . . Claudette Colbert says she will vacation with her husband and not alone as rumored. I heard a nice story about Claudette. In her picture "Sky-lark" was an elderly character actress who had been among the unemployed for some time. She was nervous in her scene with Claudette and "blew up" over and over again. "Don't worry," Claudette finally told her, "I do that all the time." The next shot was okay.

Spencer Tracy, as Dr. Jekyll, had to waltz with Lana Turner. He is not a good dancer and does not like dancing. After several unsatisfactory rehearsals, he said to Director Victor Fleming, "The easiest way to do this scene is to have Fred Astaire for Dr. Jekyll and I'll just play Mr. Hyde." "And while you're about it, you might get Ginger Rogers," flipped Miss Turner. This is the sort of thing you do not see or hear on the screen—and perhaps it's just as well.

Vivien Leigh is beautiful as "That Hamilton Woman," and her performance outranks her "Scarlett." Laurence Olivier, with one arm and one eye as Lord Nelson, has more sex appeal than most of the other male stars put together. The picture stays with you a long time after leaving the theater.

Gary Cooper has a clause in his contract giving his stand-in, Slim Talbot, $125 a week. The usual fee for stand-ins is $33. . . . Mickey Rooney tried to grow a beard in Honolulu, but no soap. . . . George Brent loathes having to make love to females—in his films—and rumbles. "The only reason I get those love-making parts is because of the shortage of young men in Hollywood." Do we ever know when we are well off? . . . Dorothy Lamour has enrolled in the Terry Hunt emporium—to reduce her hips and improve her posture.

Visit to Georgetown MY DAY: A Restful One

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

"HOBBAW," GEORGETOWN, S. C., Tuesday.—We left Washington yesterday in the rain, but gradually the sky above us became blue and we were flying over those white, fleecy-looking clouds which make you wish you were in an open plane and could jump down into them! They look like the most delectable kind of feather bed and always remind me of the enormous feather bed I once slept in in Oberammergau, years and years ago.

It was my first experience with the genuine article and I was a little appalled by it. But I found it warm and comfortable and decided that like so many other things in life, it was only because it was new that I doubted its acceptability. Our hair or cotton mattresses with plain wool blankets must seem strangely hard and uninviting to the uninitiated!

Even the fleecy clouds left us before we reached Charleston, and we could see clearly the alternating open fields and woods below us. In Charleston, Mr. Bernard Baruch and his daughter, Miss Belle Baruch, met us and we reached "Hobcaw" in time for a cup of tea and a stroll around the grounds before dinner.

For a long time we sat on the porch and watched the squirrels. A little black spaniel, though he seemed to be fairly well trained, was safely shut indoors and then the peanuts were thrown out to attract the gray squirrels.

First one ran down the big live-oak tree in front of us, and sat up looking around until the sound of the nuts falling on the porch made him draw nearer. Gradually, from every tree, more squirrels appeared until eight or ten darted up and seized the particular nut he had seen, or chased one of the others away.

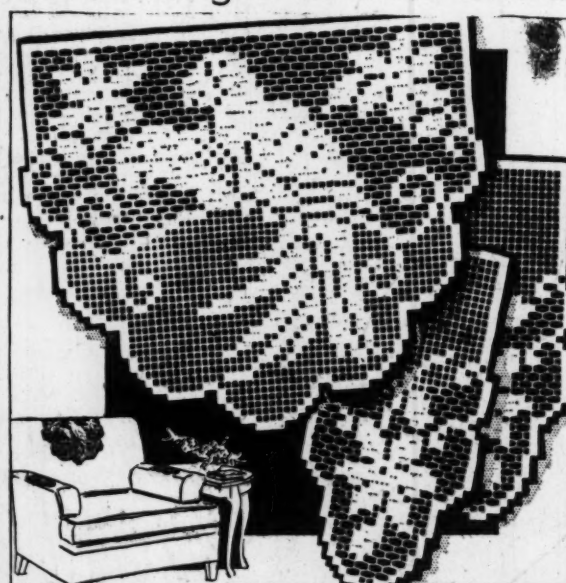

Even if there is plenty for all, apparently the rather human trait of wanting what your neighbor has is strong in the animal world also. The little squirrels wanted each other's peanuts, even more than they wanted those lying on the ground which they could have for the taking.

Moss waves from the branches of the trees. Those through which we approached the house and immediately around it, are some of the most beautiful old trees I have seen. Even though we drove through some swampy land, this place seems to me a friendly, cheerful place, lacking that eerie quality which I find often prevalent in southern landscape. Eerie-ness is interesting, but it is pleasanter to live in an atmosphere of warmth and cheer.

The sunset was beautiful, setting across the marsh. Since this is a game preserve, on our way back from dinner at Miss Baruch's house we saw a deer with shining eyes, on the right side of the road. This is a peaceful place and I can well understand that a busy man would find not only relaxation, but an opportunity to rebuild depleted energies here and to start out again with a sense of having drawn strength from close proximity to the calmness and wisdom of nature. In this hospitable house, how many guests must have gone back to work grateful for this experience.

Today's Charm Tip

In these days of arguments on themes political, national and international, don't succumb to that weakness of personalizing everything and do permit the other side an opinion, too.

Daisy print dinner dress with elbow-length sleeves, heart-shaped neck and black jersey midriff is a favorite frock of Alice Frost. The style, a pattern of lovely simplicity, is especially flattering for tall girls. She wears pearls and a jeweled clip as a sophisticated filipp.

Gérms Can't Exist If Exposed To Sun, Cold

By Dr. William Brady.

A feminine reader writes:

Evidently you are not a street-car rider and do not stand on corners waiting for car or bus, among the crowds. The conversational spray you tell about may be bad, but expectoration is worse, especially in dry weather, when spitting on the pavement becomes a serious matter. The sputum soon dries and blows about as dust, and, I am sure, I need not tell you what that means. What worries me is that many of these people who expectorate with utter contempt for law or health board regulation or the welfare of those about them, apparently suffer with lung trouble, catarrhal troubles and other communicable conditions. I believe if these people who spit on the street without restraint could be taught to keep their ailments to themselves or else to keep away from other people, there would be a good many less believers in "catching cold" from dampness, drafts, wet feet and change of weather. What is your opinion? M. L.

My opinion is that little if any infection can be traced to that source. By the time sputum dries enough to blow about as dust any disease germs in it are unlikely to retain any virulence if they have survived at all. Disease germs cannot stand exposure to dryness, sunlight or cold more than a few degrees below the temperature of the body. When they are so exposed they quickly lose virulence.

But persons who expectorate on the street are a menace to anyone who happens to be within their range. Such persons are likely to cough or sneeze without a thought of covering nose and mouth to prevent spraying others near them. And, of course, their conversational spray may carry directly to the mouth of any one within range (three to five feet) samples of the germs which cause their tuberculosis, sinusitis, sore throat, flu or whatever it may be, and such germs are still virulent and capable of causing the disease in any susceptible individual. It isn't the spit, but the spray, one must try to avoid.

Camp Fire Girls To Hold Final Session Today

Southeastern Troop Leaders Hear Miss Wahlstrom.

A new measure in national defense, looking toward the generations to come, a measure of building character and preparing the youth of America for a strong foundation and the strength with which to ward off national crises such as European wars, was staunchly launched yesterday by district III of the Camp Fire Girls in conference here.

The workers, lead by Mrs. Tom Brooke, concluded that work carried on by Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls leads the youths to become patriotic and orderly citizens. And so they concluded to make every effort to increase the enrollment in the organization in their sections of nine southeastern states.

Miss Catherine Wahlstrom, national executive, spoke periodically during the day's session about the activities of various groups in the district. She will meet again today with the guardians of Atlanta (actually the troop leaders of the girls) for a training course for these workers. She pointed out that the utopian desire for American girls is composed of the following qualities: new experiences, health, fun, a balanced life, security, recognition, education and social contacts.

The culture of these qualities, she said, will ward off national emergencies such as now faces the world. And so she urged a staunch drive for character building among the American youths.

Today in Atlanta Churches

Church Night dinner and mid-week services of the Druid Hills Methodist church will be at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the church.

Mikell will conduct the service and all the clergy of the city have been invited to take part in the vested procession, which will follow the St. Luke's choir. ## At the City Hall

Miss Frances Welch yesterday had the distinction of being the first woman employee of the city to be called to the colors. She will become a Navy nurse in April, and has asked for a leave of absence. Her present assignment is nurse in the food handlers' division of the department of health.

For the first time this year, the mayor's office was closed at the same time the city hall closes—4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Mayor LeCraw, who usually works late, was out of the city, and James C. Grizzard, executive secretary, said he was going to get away on the dot for once.

Mayor Pro Tem, John A. White will be acting mayor of Atlanta today for the first time since his elevation to the post last January. With Mayor LeCraw out of town until Monday, White will do the honors.

James C. Grizzard, Mayor LeCraw's executive secretary, yesterday was exhibiting the July 20, 1929, issue of The Atlanta Constitution, a special edition on the Civil War and the part Atlanta played in the conflict. There were 56 pages, and the headlines read: "The Story of the City of Siege." Grizzard said the old issue was among the papers of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lillian King Williams.

at the COURTHOUSE

Young C. Wilson, 25, of Forrest Park, drew a suspended sentence of 18 months yesterday, but was ordered to pay $72 court costs at $4 monthly when he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to collect fake damages from the Georgia Power Company. Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, of Fulton superior court, heard the plea.

County Commissioner I. Gloor Hailey has gone to Florida for a brief rest in an attempt to recuperate from a recent illness, it was learned yesterday. The commissioner will probably return before the regular meeting of the board next Wednesday.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(P)—
Railroad issues had one of the best days in recent months in the bond market today.

In unusually heavy turnover, gains ranged from small fractions to 2 points and in some cases more with the best showing by the low-priced issues, many of which are in default on both interest and principal.

The general run of the corporate bonds, while a shade higher, were all but neglected in the rush to get aboard the fast-moving carriers.

Australia 4 1-2s were in supply and ended off 15-8 at 50 3-4. There was limited demand for some Latin-American loans which pushed quotations up moderately.

SHE LOVED A SPY

Karl Accuses Joan of Killing Strom; Joan Finds She's Involved in Spy Ring

By Sylvia Taylor

SYNOPSIS. Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, gives Joan Leland two weeks' salary and tells her he will not need her any longer as his secretary. She knows her work has been satisfactory and she is still angry when she goes to the studio apartment she shares with her older sister, Sybil, who although only 27, has been divorced six years. Before Joan can tell her sister her news, Sybil says she has lost her beauty parlor job. That evening Joan sees a newspaper ad for a secretary. The North Beach address is that of a new night club, about to open. Karl Miller, a handsome, powerfully-built man, with a trace of an accent, engages her, although she has no references. Her salary will be $50 a week because of the unusual hours, he says, and pays her two weeks in advance. Joan finds him fascinating, which Sybil divines, and she says there must be something shady about the Club Elite when she hears of the advance pay. Karl takes Joan dancing the night before his club opens, and Sybil demands that Joan quit working for him. Karl gets Sybil a job through Mrs. Mulford, who owns the Ritz Beauty Salon, and when Joan is thanking him he takes her in his arms and kisses her just as Paul Sherman, his manager, enters the office. Karl takes her to dinner on Sunday and she meets Strom, whom Karl introduced to her as his silent partner. Later she overhears them talking German and realizes that when Paul warns her to watch her step, Karl takes her with him when he goes aboard a battered freighter to deliver a package and tells her he loves her. She sees Paul shadowing them.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

She wanted to laugh wildly, hysterically, "Go on as if nothing had happened?" Karl wrapped the pistol in a handkerchief, put it in the safe, then motioned to Paul. "Give me a hand." Together they carried the lifeless Eric Strom from the office. Joan could hear them descending the fire escape, outside the back of the building. What would they do with Eric? The noise from the orchestra must have prevented the sound of the shot from disturbing the guests at the Club Elite.

Joan stared at the telephone. She was alone. It would be easy to call the police—but she was afraid. She was afraid of the look in Karl Miller's eyes. There had been ruthless determination in those eyes. And in the safe lay the gun that had killed Eric. A gun bearing her fingerprints. Paul had said he would testify in support of Karl. What chance would Joan Leland have?

The evidence was conclusively against her. What was behind this murder? Why Karl's attitude, Paul's sudden change of front?

She had no idea how long it was before Karl returned. He was alone.

"Let us understand each other," he said, sitting down at his desk. "It would be most unfortunate if I were to become involved with the police. I am not an American citizen."

"You are a German?" Joan asked dully.

"Naturally, as is everyone else associated with me here at the club."

"Paul, too?"

"Of course, Paul, too," Karl Miller smiled as he leaned towards her. "You see we are engaged in certain activities which are necessarily very private."

Then at last Joan knew the truth. This was a spy ring. It must be. That explained everything—those mysterious letters to Mexico, Karl's reticence. The Club Elite was a blind. But why was Karl telling her this?

"I trust you now," Karl said with a wry smile. "You are in much too deep to get out. Not only would you be held for murder, but you are implicated just as much as the rest of us. You recall the portfolio you delivered to the freighter?"

"That envelope contained very valuable information. Information enough to convict you on many counts. You were seen delivering that envelope by several people. One of them happened to be Paul Sherman."

Little by little Joan Leland's confused brain began to see the picture. And she knew that what Karl said was true. She was in too deep to get out. But she must get out! She could not, would not continue to have anything to do with Karl Miller now that she knew the truth. A spy! So this was the mystery that she had once considered romantic and attractive! She looked at him now with loathing.

But Karl put a hand over hers. "Be sensible, Joan. You're hysterical at the moment but you'll be all right. You have nothing to worry about. I'm very fond of you. Is there any reason we should not go on?"

The girl leaped to her feet. "I hate you, Karl Miller! And no matter what you say, I'm not afraid of you!"

His hands were on her shoulders. "You don't mean that, sweetheart."

He seemed amused at her outburst. Once she had cherished that tender look. Now it was loathsome to her. With the madness of despair, she struck him full in the mouth.

Karl stepped back and his face was white with rage. "You little fool! Do you think it's as easy as that? Don't you know you'll be followed the moment you leave this office? You will be driven to work every day by Paul Sherman. If you make a false move you will meet with an unfortunate accident. Shall we call it a truce?"

Silence. There must be some way, Joan thought, "but what?" She would tell Sybil! Sybil would know what to do. Until then it would be best to pretend to Karl that he had won. He must believe that she was frightened.

"It seems that all the cards are in your hands," she admitted. Joan wondered if she could "Very clear of you to realize it," really deceive Karl. Even if she were followed home, he would have no way of knowing what she told Sybil. She could tell Sybil to go to the police—yet Karl might have them both followed. Joan could not believe that Karl would take any chances.

"I'm going home," she said wearily, "straight home. You needn't worry about my going to the police tonight."

"I am not in the least worried," Karl said calmly. "You are young and beautiful, and I am sure that you are not yet ready to die."

She looked at him and for a moment she longed to see that other Karl. . . . The Karl she had loved. Tears stung in her eyes. How could she have been so blind? A reckless, adventure-loving girl, laughing at Fate, moving blithely towards her own destruction. She had held open, eager arms to life, welcomed anything that was "exciting and different." But Sybil had been the wise one.

"You can't trust any man," Joan thought bitterly. Even Paul Sherman, who had warned her about Karl, was involved in the spy ring. He had warned her about Karl but he was no better.

"You didn't have to go so far, did you, Karl?" Joan asked now. "You didn't have to pretend to love me, did you? Wasn't that unnecessary?"

"You are very charming," Karl said, bowing.

"And you are very clever, but if you hadn't asked me to marry you."

"That proved my sincerity?"

"Yes. Although I'm ashamed to admit it."

"Perhaps it would interest you to know that I already have a wife. . . ." then he added smoothly, "in my own country."

This was the final blow. Karl's announcement that he had a wife in Germany came as a complete shock to Joan Leland. She had attached so much importance to his desire to marry her that it had never occurred to her he should be insincere. Even when she realized that he was involved in the spy ring and had tried to pin the murder of Eric Strom upon her, the one honest fact in their previous relationship was his proposal as a relationship. Now this too was gone.

"If you are ready to go home," Karl suggested, "I will drive you."

"Very well," Joan answered expressionlessly.

Together they left the office, walked by the gay throng that celebrated in the Club Elite, celebrated with no suspicion of the tragedy that had been enacted in the back office. People were laughing, drinking, dancing, all in a holiday mood. Joan stared at them with new and disillusioned eyes. Karl was a spy. Karl had a wife in Germany. Karl had threatened to accuse her of Eric's murder. If she went to the police, she would meet the same fate. Even Paul had refused to help her.

"There must be some way," Joan thought desperately as she sat silently by Karl Miller's side. She could telephone the police from her apartment. Karl would have no way of knowing about that—until it was too late. Sybil could go to the authorities. Surely there was no way Karl could follow both girls day and night, trace every phone call. Comforted by the thought of Sybil's wise advice,

Joan felt more confidence in the situation.

She told herself that she hated Karl Miller as he helped her out of his car. Her heart was completely dead but underneath the shock of emotional reaction was a deadly wound. It is not easy for any girl to forget love in a month. Love does not turn into loathing without agony. She was filled with humiliation that she had given her first love, in all its tenderness, to a man who had made a joke of it. A man who had asked her to marry him only to deceive her.

"I will see you tomorrow as usual," Karl was saying. "Paul will drive you to work after this. You understand?"

"I understand perfectly."

For a moment they stared at each other. Sweethearts an hour ago. Now enemies forever. Swiftly Joan turned and ran up the steps.

In the living room she was greeted with darkness and silence. She switched on one small lamp and called, "Sybil, where are you?"

But only her own voice sounded in the high-ceilinged room. Strange that Sybil should not be home yet. Apparently she had not returned from work. Joan ran into the bedroom. It was undisturbed. In the kitchen there were no signs that Sybil had eaten her dinner. And then on the kitchen table Joan saw an envelope. Tearing it open, she found a note in Sybil's handwriting. "I'll be back soon. Something terrible has happened. . . ."

A cold chill of premonition swept Joan. Instantly her mind leaped to Karl Miller. Had he suspected her plan of enlisting Sybil's aid? But how could he? And why would Sybil say, "I'll be back soon"? Surely it could not be so terrible.

"I'm just nervous," Joan told herself.

She tried to light the fire but it refused to burn and smoldered out, leaving the room in dismal silence. Clapping her hands, Joan walked around the room. "I've got to talk to someone," she thought hysterically. "I can't stand this any longer."

But as she drew back the window curtain she saw Karl Miller's car still in front of the apartment. If she left, he would surely follow her. The telephone! She ran across the room and seized it from its place on the table.

With a trembling finger she dialed the operator. The silence of a completely dead wire was too obvious to be mistaken.

Continued Tomorrow.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The period previous to 1:12 p. m. favors general business, legal consultations and contacting those capable of giving good counsel. The period favors buying and selling. After 1:12 p. m. and continuing throughout the evening hours favors attending to personal matters rather than attempting new or important changes.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Opportunities for co-operation or closer companionships with others will be felt in many ways throughout the day. The entire day and evening favors financial affairs and dealings with professional people.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Some adjustments may have to be made before 12:04 noon, for it will be easy to go to extremes of action. If calmness and peace are maintained, this will be a favorable period for work requiring quickness of action, otherwise antagonisms may abound.

June 21st and July 20th (CANCER)—Before 2:37 p. m. is an excellent time for making contacts with important people, and any clever idea or proposition that you want to further should be followed up. After 2:37 p. m. favors sports and social affairs.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The period does not appear to be a favorable time for indulging in financial extravagance. An excellent day to stick to routine matters. The best aspects of the day operate between 11:10 a. m. and 2:00 p. m.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Before 1:03 p. m. holds conservative influences, favoring affairs of a substantial nature, getting things in a positive way and finishing work that has been dragging. After 1:03 p. m. radical changes or departures from ordinary procedure should be guarded against.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—The entire day through 7:45 p. m. should result most satisfactorily in almost any line of endeavor. After 7:45 p. m. favors ordinary business matters, but suggests caution in making sudden and unpremeditated moves.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—Throughout the entire day and until 7 p. m. does not favor seeking favors, or asking for long credits. Previous to 6:45 a. m. suggests using special care in travel.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—This should be a very good day, for the entire period favors new and important undertakings, dealings with people who are in a position of trust and for some really constructive work. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3 p. m.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—The entire day and until 10:36 p. m. favors accomplishments of a stable nature, quick action, creative work, writing, commercial transactions should be highly stimulated to your profit.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—While new beginnings may have a tendency to run into obstacles if started before 11:28 a. m., old practical ideas may be pushed forward to advantage. Before 5:04 p. m. favors matters pertaining to land and property. The remainder of the day suggests sticking to routine.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—After 10:47 a. m. favors practical work and dealings with people of a conservative nature, but does not favor making sudden changes. The period suggests sticking to routine.

Nearly 400 Bills Await Signing Today

Those Not Approved Formally, Automatically Become Vetoed.

Almost 400 bills passed by the 1941 legislature must be signed by Governor Talmadge today or they are automatically vetoed.

Included in the mass of local and general measures are the three labor bills which forbid closed shop activities on national defense projects; require a 30-day notice from unions before a strike can be called and force taxicab drivers to take passengers to their expressed destination.

The Governor has been in seclusion since Monday afternoon, when he held a public hearing on the labor bills. However, his aides in the executive office said that he would spend the entire day today studying unsigned legislation and making out approvals and vetoes.

Veto Provision.

It is necessary that bills warranting approval be signed today under a constitutional provision that automatically vetoes any act of the legislature that is not signed by the governor within five days after the general assembly adjourns. During the session, however, a five-day lapse without action by the governor automatically makes a bill law.

Carlton Mobley, an assistant attorney general and close advisor to the Governor, said yesterday there is some doubt as to whether Sunday should be counted in the five days since adjournment of the assembly. To preclude any doubts, he added, the Governor would sign or reject all measures before him today.

Also before Talmadge is the metropolitan traffic authority bill affecting Fulton and DeKalb counties which Mayor LeCraw has asked vetoed on the grounds that it discriminates against the city of Atlanta in defining the membership of the controlling board.

Another measure would abolish the electric chair in Georgia and substitute a lethal gas chamber, as is now used in North Carolina and six western states.

Much Signed Already.

Most of the important administration-sponsored legislation already has been signed by Governor Talmadge, including the budget bill allowing him to divert surplus funds in one department to other departments needing financial aid and the ouster bills which were amended to permit him to suspend the treasurer and the comptroller general provided the assembly be called in 30 days to approve or disapprove the action.

Among unsigned bills are a measure extending the life of the milk control board until 1946, one lengthening the term of the commissioner of labor to four years and a bill to permit women to serve on petit and grand juries in counties where two successive grand juries approve.

'41 Legislative Expenses Will Near $200,000

Almost Complete Total Shows Session Cost Above $175,000.

An almost complete total of legislative expenses showed yesterday the 1941 session cost $164,686.60 for pay roll items and $11,714.20 for mileage.

Other items to be added include additional mileage and legislators' pay, cost of printing the journal and compiling and printing the acts passed. Fiscal officials expected the total would approximate $200,000.

Representatives and senators received $7 a day for 70 days, presiding officials $10 a day, house clerk $70 a day and senate secretary $60 a day. The clerks must pay their own clerical help and provide the bulk of supplies.

During the past session, two efforts to boost the pay of members from $7 to $10 a day failed, one in the senate, the other in the house.

Bridge Champions Play Griffin Team

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

GRiffin, Ga., March 26.—Two national contract bridge champions were in Griffin Monday night for a match with a local team, and won by only three points in the final rubber.

They were Jeff and Maury Glick, of Cleveland, Ohio. They played Herman Goldstein and Ralph Jones, who are among Griffin's best bridge players.

The Glicks, along with Lou Newman, of Washington, D. C., and Harry Feinberg, of Cleveland, are a team of four who hold the national contract bridge championship at present.

Last night's match was a 20-rubber match, beginning at 7:30 o'clock and ending at 2 a. m. Tuesday. The match was close all the way and the "champs" won out in the final rubber by only three points.

The Glicks, who are close friends of Goldstein, came here from Hollywood, Fla., where they have just completed in a bridge tournament.

SCOUTERS' MEETING.

ATHENS, Ga., March 26.—Boy Scout leaders from all parts of the sixth region were guests of the Athens Scouts and of the University of Georgia today at the annual convention of sixth region Scouters and leaders. The convention dealt principally with a training institute for businessmen interested in scouting.

BILLS—Mrs. David B. Mitchell, a clerk in Governor Talmadge's office, examines a few of the 400 bills passed by the 1941 legislature which the Governor will sign or veto, as the case may be, today. After today any bills still unsigned automatically are vetoed, according to Carlton Mobley, an assistant attorney general.

U. S. Engineers Will Discuss Coosa Project

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ROME, Ga., March 26.—A hearing on the proposal for opening the Coosa river to navigation will be held by the board of the United States Army Engineers in Washington Monday, according to an announcement reaching here today.

The board at this time, it was disclosed, will make a careful study of all the facts bearing on the proposed Coosa development, and will report its findings to the secretary of war, who in turn will report to President Roosevelt.

At the hearing, delegations advancing the approval of the Coosa project will not be heard, the purpose being to limit the inquiry to the statistical facts which have become available. Upon these facts, it was stated, will be based the decision.

The exhaustive report of the district and division engineers, which represents months of painstaking labor upon the Coosa-Alabama river system, is now before the board of engineers. The report is said to be favorable and one of the reasons for its approval by the Army engineers is the fact the development would largely increase the power resources of the river.

Colonel Richard Park, district engineer, proposed a long-range development that would cost $95,400,000, of which $27,200,000 would be devoted to navigation purposes, $4,300,000 to flood control, and $63,900,000 for power development.

An alternative plan was suggested by the United States division engineer, Colonel R. H. Powell, which calls for an expenditure of $62,292,000, and would be carried out in these two phases: (1) The nine-foot channel from Mobile to Montgomery would be developed at a cost of $17,783,000 and (2) the development of the nine-foot channel and power sites between Montgomery and Rome, estimated to cost an additional $44,509,000.

Welles Urges Beef Purchase In Argentina

Lifting of Restrictions on Army, Navy Buying Asked as Policy Move.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P) Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, asked today that congress lift restrictions on Army and Navy purchases of Argentine beef.

He made the request in asking a senate appropriations committee to eliminate from a $4,073,000 supplemental defense bill a house-approved provision generally prohibiting the Army and Navy from purchasing food, clothing and other products except in continental United States.

Welles appeared before the committee in a closed session and told reporters later that he had urged that the restriction be lifted so that purchases could be made in Latin-American countries in furtherance of the "good neighbor" policy and to promote hemispherical co-operation on defense.

The provision inserted in the house-approved bill was similar to an amendment the senate struck out of the regular naval supply bill this week, despite the efforts of some senators to prevent the purchase by the Navy of Argentine canned beef and other products.

A Meal for Hitler Is Offered by Cook

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

LAKELAND, Ga., March 26.—"The world wouldn't have to bother with Hitler any more" if Annie Lewis, Lakeland cook, had her way.

A mass meeting of property owners was held at the Lanier county courthouse Monday night to secure options from landholders, mostly colored, for a proposed defense airport project, and Annie Lewis was among the citizens willing to give options to the city for their property.

Annie rose and addressed the meeting thus: "I've willin' to co-operate wif de city, and I'd be satisfied if dey would give me one chanct to cook a meal fo' Hitler. The world wouldn't have to bother wif him any mo."
